BISHOP WHITEHEAD TO DEDICATE NEW WINDOW

Diocese Head Will Conduct Services at Episcopal Church Sunday.

CORNER STONE BLESSING

Part of Ruins of Old St Thomas Church Brought Here by Local People.

The Rt. Rev. Courtlandt Whitehead L. T. D., bishop of the diocese of Pittsburg, Episcopal church, will be at St. Mary's Episcopal church next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock to confirm a large class, and at the same time dedicate a new memorial window recently placed in the church by the Young Ladies Altar Guild. The window is in memory of Rev. Joseph Doddridge, a pioneer missionary in Colonial times in this district. The bishop will also bless the old corner stone of St. Thomas church recently brought from that structure and placed in St. Mary's church.

The dedication of the memorial window, and the blessing of the St. Thomas corner stone will be attended with much ceremony. Rev. Joseph Doddridge, the missonary, to whom the window is dedicated, was a brother of Rev. Philip Doddridge the noted hymn writer, whose hymns are used in all churches of the Christian denominations.

The corner stone of the old St. Thomas church was recovered through the efforts of Rev. Shey and former pastors of St. Mary's church. The old St. Thomas church was one of the first Episcopal churches to be erected west of the Allegheny mountains, and one of the first to be erected by any denomination. It was located in Washington county, not far from Brownsville.

Bishop Whitehead will arrive on Sunday and will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Daly at North Charleroi. He will address the Sunday School Sunday morning, and conduct the ante-communion service.

CORNER STONE LAID AT NEW MONESSEN LUTHERAN CHURCH

The corner stone of the new St Paul Lutheran church at Monessen, was laid Sunday with impressive ceremonies. In the absence of a pastor, Rev. F. J. Howard having recently resigned a former pastor, Rev. M. M. Albeck of Monongahela had charge of the exercises. Among the speakers were Rev. J. Elmer Bittle, missionary superintendent of the Pittsburg Synod, Rev. J. K. Hilty, of Indiana, Pa., and Rev. C. E. Frontz of Charleroi, secretary of the Pittsburg Synod. Local pastors also assisted.

Large Shipment.

The largest shipment of express this year on one train from the Charleroi office of the Adams Express company was made yesterday, when on the second section of south bound train due here at 7:58, 15,055 pounds of meat were shipped.

Charleroi was unusually well regulated on Memorial Day. The police kept strict watch, but there were only two arrests, these for drunkeness.

P. H. C. To Have A Float in Line

Other Merchants Promise to Bedeck Wagons for Fourth Parade.

The P. H. C. will have a float in the parade July 4. This is one of the lodges that does things up right when it starts, and it is safe to assume that the members will have something fine in line on this occasion. Chas. Schmeiler, the meat market man of Fallowfield avenue, will also be in line with a float. Councilman Schmeiler isanother business man who doesn't do things by half.

DEAD ARE HONORED

Lives of War Heroes Commemorated in Many Places.

Memorial Day was generally observed as a holiday in Charleroi. The stores were practically all closed at least part of the day, and many attended elsewhere the services held for the dead heroes of the War of the Rebellion. The Charleroi Boys Brigade went to Fayette City in the morning and participated in services which were held there, while the Washington Avenue Presbyterian Boys Brigade went to Belle Vernon, to take a part in services.

The only events of more than usual interest in Charleroi during the day were the two baseball games of the Church League, one in the morning and one in the afternoon. The afternoon game drew out one of the largest crowds that has been seen on the local baseball ground for many a day.

Eldora Park atttracted large numbers during the morning, afternoon and evening, and dancing was a feature there. The weather conditions interferred to some extent with the enjoyment of the day, but did not prevent people from decorating their homes and observing the holiday.

TROUBLE FOR THE LAME, THE HALT AND THE BLIND

Processions of Invalids Strike Charleroi for Memorial Day Work—One Extremely Odoriferious.

Cripples and diseased men swooped down on Charleroi yesterday for a rich harvest, but failed to get out of town in time, Chief Albright and his men pulling in seven this morning. One of the seven was a man with a bad disease, who was here to glean what he could from the people, when he should have been in the hospital. The man's flesh was actually rotten in some places, and he carried an odor like the carcass of some dead animal.

The others were arrested for begging on the streets These couldn't scrape up a disease and had burned their arms or their bodies in such a manner as to give them a horrible appearance. In this way they worked on the sympathies of the people. What will be done with the men arrested is a question, but the least will be to chase them out of town.

PRESBYTERIANS AND LUTHERANS WIN

Baptists Lose Morning Game to the Washington Avenues; Score 12 to 4

The Lutherans barely came out victorious in the afternoon game with the Methodists yesterday, by the score of 7 to 6. The game was one of the best that been played on the local grounds thus far this season. The Lutherans started off well and scored one run in their half of the first. By dint of hard work they chased another man around the bags in the third, and in the fourth scored four runs on a series of hits and misplays. One in the seventh completed their tallying. One in the fourth, one in the fifth, two in the sixth, one in the seventh and one in the ninth was the best the M. E.'s could do. The score:

Lutherans	1 0 1 4 0 0 1 0 x	7	7	5
Methodists	0 0 0 1 1 2 1 0 1	6	9	5

Batteries—Lutherans, Miller and Fisher. Methodists, Pollock and Bege. Struck out—by Miller 9, by Pollock 8. Two base hit Baiza. Base on balls—Off Miller 2, off Pollock 2. Upmire—Byland.

Methodists Put Up Good Contest, but Are Nosed Out by Opponents

The Washington Avenue Presbyterians gave the Baptists a decided drubbing in the morning game yesterday, in what was with the exception of two bad innings a good game. The Baptists started off well, and scored the first run, one in the third inning. In their part of the third, however, the Washington Avenues retaliated by scoring four runs. By a combination of hits, errors and misplays they succeeded in getting seven more in the fifth inning, and by the same methods got one in the sixth. The Baptists tried hard at the latter part of the contest to do something, and did succeed in getting one around in the eighth and two in the ninth innings. Osborne pitched a good game. The score:

		R.	H.	E.
W. A. P.	0 0 4 0 7 1 0 0 x	12	7	6
Baptists	0 0 1 0 0 0 0 1 2	4	7	8

Batteries—W. A. Presbyterians, Osborne and Carmell. Baptists—R Allshouse, Kearns and Mason. Struck out—by Osborne 8, by Allshouse 6, by Kearns 2. Two base hits—Barrass and Mitchell. Umpires—Mathias and Byland.

FORMER CHARLEROI RESIDENT IS DEAD

Richard Parks, Sr., Succumbs to Complication of Diseases at Donora

Richard Parks, Sr., 69 years old of Donora, formerly of Charleroi, died Sunday morning at 9:45 o'clock at his home from a complication of diseases. Mr. Parks had been sick about six weeks, and from the first fears were entertained for his recovery. The funeral will be held from the late home Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and interment will be in the Monongahela cemetery.

Mr. Parks is survived by eight sons and daughters, among whom is Former Coucilman William Parks of Charleroi, who is now located in Artesia, New Mexico. Two daughters, Mrs. M. Wilson and Miss Emma, and one son Richard live in Charleroi. Other children are: Mrs. A. C. Spence of Washington; Mrs. Louise Boyer of Donora; Mrs. William Williams of Floreffe; George of Artesia, New Mexico. He was twice married and is survived by his second wife. Two sisters also survive, one who lives in England now being on her way here to attend the funeral. The other sister resides in Australia.

MABEL COOK DIES AT BELLE VERNON

Mabel Garrett Cook, 25 years old, daughter of the late Joseph and Violet Cook of Belle Vernon died at 12:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at her home The funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the late home, and interment will be in Rehoboth cemetery. The deceased was well known in Charleroi and other valley places, where she had many friends who regret to learn of her demise.

Mass Meeting.

There will be a mass meeting in P. H. C. hall on Tuesday, May 31 at 7 o'clock in the interest of William Feeney, the working man's candidate for Assembly. All citizens are cordially invited. 240t2p

TWO KILLED AND ONE IS INJURED

Auto Accident at Marianna Results in Death of Washington Men

In trying, it is believed, to drive the 18 miles from Mariana to Washington in thirty minutes, a party of three men in an automobile was wrecked early Sunday morning, two being instantly killed and the other fatally hurt.

The dead are John Datig, 30 years old; Harry Wheatley, 37 years old.

The injured are: Charles Babbett, aged 25, crushed about the chest, at Memorial hospital, Monongahela, with no chance of recovery. All the victims are from Washington.

The party left Washington late Saturday night in Datig's car to attend a banquet at a club at Marianna. As they left the club Datig is said to have declared that he would make the return trip in half an hour flat. A few minutes later the three men lay beneath the debris of Datig's machine, which had crashed into the abutment of the Monongahela and Washintgon railroad bridge near Mariana. The wreck was discovered by a passing auto. An engine and caboose on the railroad was flagged and took the dead and injured people to Monongahela.

Mr. Wheatley, who is a relative of Mrs. George Arnold, of McKean avenue, was well known in Charleroi.

Card of Thanks.

We sincerely thank our friends and neighbors, also the nurses and doctors at the Charleroi-Monessen hospital for their assistance rendered during the sickness of the late Mrs. Mary Evequoz.

On Wednesday evening at the Methodist Episcopal church a native Bulgarian missionary, Rev. S. J. Soomkoff, will lecture, his topic to be "Social and Religious Conditions in Bulgaria and Macedonia." Rev. Soomkoff is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and of the divinity school of the University of Chicago. His lecture will be free.

IS DRAGGED MANY RODS

Little Florence Schwartz Has Miraculous Escape From Death.

Florence the six-year-old daughter of Jacob Schwartz, the Fallowfield avenue clothier, had a narrow escape from death or very serious injury when she was caught under the wheels of a street car on Fallowfield avenue Saturday. The girl was dragged from Sixth street to in front of Frank Riva's store, before the motorman became aware of the accident. The main injuries were about the face, and head, the most serious one being a cut in the back of the head two inches long.

The girl was down street with two other Schwartz children. Florence started to cross Fallowfield avenue, at Sixth street, just as the car due at 6 o'clock was pulling in. It was running slow, and the motorman did not notice the little girl directly in his path. She did not notice the approaching car, and was hit and thrown under. Instinctively she grabbed for a rod, and succeeded in grasping it and holding on, this probably saving her life. The motor man put on more speed, but attracted by the cries of spectators stopped in front of Riva's store, and the girl was released from her predicament, lapsing into unconsciousness the moment she was taken from under the car. She was carried to a physician's office and the wounds dressed, after which she was taken home.

This morning the girl is in a rather bad shape, partly from the shock. Both eyes are practically closed by bruises sustained on the face.

QUEER FAMILY MIXUP RESULTS FROM DEATH

Last week Mrs. S. J. Cocain of Donora and Edward Ross of the same place were held for court at a hearing before 'Squire Hambry, on a charge of larceny and obtaining goods under false pretense. The prosecutor is Leo Meszner, of Allegheny. Meszner claims that the man shot opposite California a few weeks ago was his son. Mrs. Cocain and some of her immediate friends and relatives identified the body as that of her brother, and buried it as such. Meszner came from Pittsburg, and claimed that it was his son, and that he had a right to the effects which were held by Mrs. Cocain and Ross. He brought suit.

Lodge 494 to Visit Lawrence County Amusement Ground This Year

MANY EXPECTED TO GO

Committees Now at Work Arranging Incidentals for the Affair.

The Elks' picnic will be held this year at Cascade Park Special train will leave Brownsville at 7:30 Wednesday morning, June 8, "our time" over the P. and L. E. railroad. Charleroi Elks will take the train at Monessen. The fare for round trip will be $1.00 for adults, children half fare. Last year this lodge went to Shady Grove Park where they had a most enjoyable outing. But those having the picnic in charge this year decided to go to Cascade. This is one of the most beautiful parks within easy reach of Charleroi, and the committee is to be congratulated on securing a date. If the weather is favorable the excursion will take the largest crowd out of Charleroi this season.

This park is near New Castle, and the Elks have a special train all the way which will leave for home at 7 o'clock. This will get the excursion back shortly after dark. The committee having this annual picnic in charge is composed of E. I. Brown, T. H. Warrensford, S. K. Long, R. J. McKean, L. F. Barker, F. E Adams, J. B. Tussing, R. E. Hoopes.

COUPLE WEDDED AT ST. JEROME'S CHURCH

This morning at 9 o'clock at St. Jerome's Catholic church took place the marriage of Miss Mary O'Rourke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel O'Rourke of Vesta and Anthony L. Glasser son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Glasser, of Fallowfield avenue. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. D. Fries, and the attendants were Miss Anna Heyder and Patrick O'Rourke, a brother of the bride. The couple will not take any trip at present. Mr. Glasser is an employe at the Imerial Bottle Works and is the first baseman on the Catholic team of the Charleroi Church league. The bride is also a popular young lady in her community.

Mr. Kennedy's Record.

The following from the Washington Record relative to the record of T. L. Kennedy is timely, in view of the fact that the latter is endeavoring to make an issue to his advantage out of what he formerly opposed when a member of the Legislature. The Record says:

"It is certainly conceded it is the right of every law abiding citizen of the United States to aspire to office, and Thomas L. Kennedy, candidate for Congress against John K. Tener is no exception, but the minute a man asks the surffage of the people he throws his entire public career open to those who may seek to judge. When he attempts to shield this it is taken as positive evidence that there is something wrong.

"We have read the accounts of the harrangues delivered by Mr. Kennedy's band of 'muck rakers,' but there has not been one whisper from them relative to his legislative career during the sessions of 1901 and 1905, therefore we consider it a duty to the voters to inquire into his record in this respect, and from cold facts we find that there was never a man in the legislative hall of this State who bore the stamp of bossism as did this same Mr. Kennedy, who now censures others for doing things that he assisted in doing.

"Not only did he do as he was bid, but when a measure came up that he was afraid to face he "dodged" and thus his colleagues soon became to know him as "dodger." The House journal shows that he "dodged" certain important measures by leaving the chamber, and then would appear immediately afterwards to cast his vote on some unimportant matter, and it is this same man who now promise his constituents to appear in Washington and overthrow this present Republicn form of Government, if his words are to be taken seriously.

"We are also in receipt of Mr. Kennedy's campaign card, and the thought strikes us that it is ill advised when one even suggests the support of a man who does not know how the body to which he hopes to become a member, is constituted. Our school books teach us that Congress is comprised of a Senate and a House of Representatives, yet Mr. Kennedy announces on his campaign cards that Beaver county "has had but two members of Congress in fifty-three years," namely, we presume, Mr. Townsend and Mr. Shallenberger, and it is unfortunaate that Mr. Kennedy has so forgotten the name of Matthew Stanley Quay.

"Although Mr. Kennedy is now crying about Roosevelt policies in the face of the fact that on page 308, House Journal, 1905 session, it is shown he voted against the endorsement of Roosevelt's policy on the subject of rebates, yet he does not mention President Taft; therefore it strikes us that by his own omissions he is no longer a Republican.

"Everything that has been said or done by or for Mr. Kennedy is chock full of inconsistencies, and we are only led to believe that he has been made the victim of the spleen of disgruntled politicians and men whose hopes of perpetual office holding has been cut short by the ideas possessed by John K. Tener that there should be an equitable distribution of the same.

"They may take Mr. Kennedy seriously in his own town, but when he comes to Washington county with an Acheson tag tied to him, and scatters worn out complaints invented by the ex-boss as an excuse for his own defeat, we are inclined to take Mr. Kennedy's candidacy as a huge joke."

Mr. Kennedy was elected as an Assemblyman from Beaver county, Senator Matthew Stanley Quay's home county. The former was one of the Senator's own, and "went along" and did as he was bid. With this record his issue of bossism will not be accepted with good grace by the voters of the district.

Voters Responsible

According to the returns from the primary elections held by both parties in Ohio and Indiana neither party cast over one-third of its total vote. The result is that the tickets are nominated by less than one-eighth of the voting strentgh of each party, and does not by any means represent a popular choice. Yet in nine cases out of ten, the nomination of the dominant party is equivalent to an election. When only the interested politicians turn out at the primaries, it is possible to nominate slated candidates. This is what leads to political crookedness, yet no one is to blame for it but the voters themselves, as by their indifference they permit the conditions they kick about when it is too late to apply a remedy.

In our coming election the representatives to be chosen to our State Legislature have a personal bearing on every man, woman and child in the Commonwealth. These are the legislators who must make laws to safeguard life and property, to uphold the morals of society, to promote and extend our public schools, to establish lines of communication which have a a direct bearing upon the prosperity of the State, and to see that every person has a square deal. Various interests are accused of putting up candidates for their own benefit, yet the people as a whole, who are affected in dollars and cents to a greater extent proportionately than any special interest, remain indifferent, do not look over the candidates, and either vote to please some one else, or remain away from the polls altogether. Is it any wonder that the evils of misgovernment prevail? Heaven helps those who help themselves, and the voter who trusts in God but stays away from the polls will find himself and family lost in the shuffle.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

The way some of us strive to gain something which we have no business to have, is evidence of the foolhardiness of humans.

While it was formerly the man with a record as long as a house that was the envied, now it is the woman with the record of not having missed a Sunday service in Sunday school for a score or more years that attracts the attention.

The superstitious might get up some kind of special superstition for a certain day in the month, on account of Halley's comet.

Euphemism is that which enables a man to say he is a free lance, when he is out of a job.

Among some of the millionaire folks it is considered little less than a disgrace for the really eligible daughter to marry anything less than a duke.

Will the sinner who is trying to get religion by borrowing the ecclesiastical sign from the front porch of the Unitarian church please return it to Rev. R. S. Many persons who desire to call up their conscience find the line busy.

While many profess to believe in palmistry, it is noticeable that the believers are usually of the unmarried slice of humanity.

A LION HUNT.

Usually a Case In Which Hunters Goad the Game Into Combat.

There is a distinction in Africa between ordinary lions and "man eaters," says T. R. MacMechen in McClure's Magazine. The ordinary lion does not willfully attack man. The presence of lions roaming at night on the veldt is not disturbing to any native nor to whites who have come to understand the beast. Persons returning to their camps after nightfall do not notice the roaring of lions or the cries of leopards or hyenas.

It is seldom that people bent upon domestic errands carry weapons in the darkness, although at night the veldt of British East Africa is alive with roaming beasts, which may be heard from the verandas of the houses. Lions give the passing man a wide berth, day or night, when it is apparent that he means no mischief. An ordinary lion, even when wounded, will try flight before fight. When its escape is disputed it will, especially if wounded, try to maul its enemy with teeth and claws.

A lion hunt is usually a chase in which the hunters goad the game into combat. Once a lion has tasted human blood, however, it is no more afraid of man, but learns that he is the weakest of animals and the choicest of meat. Such a lion is known as a man eater because now he hunts man.

Happiness and Joy.

Happiness, according to the original use of the term, is that which happens or comes to one by a hap—that is, by an outward befalling or favorable condition. It is what money yields or will buy—dress, equipage, fashion, luxuries of the table—or it is settlement in life, independence, love, applause, admiration, honor, glory, or the more conventional and public benefits of rank, political standing, victory, power—all these stir a delight in the soul, which is not of the soul or its quality, but from without; hence they are looked upon as happening to the soul and, in that sense, create happiness. Joy differs from this as being of the soul itself, originating in its quality. And this appears in the original form of the word, which instead of suggesting a hap literally denotes a leap or spring * * * The motion is outward and not toward, as we conceive it to be in happiness. It is not the bliss of condition, but of character.—Dr. Horace Bushnell

Concealed Weapons.

Once in a college town the rumor that students were carrying concealed weapons reached the ears of the local police. The chief at once issued stringent orders that the heinous practice should be stopped. One day a group of them passed a policeman, and one of the students in so doing put his hand to his hip pocket. Then, as if recollecting himself in time, he hastily withdrew it and looked sheepishly at the policeman.

"What have you in that pocket?" the latter asked sternly.

Instead of answering, the student and all his companions, as if panic stricken, started to run. After a chase all the students were cornered and ordered to deliver up whatever they had in their hip pockets.

Meekly they obeyed. Each one carried a corncob. The remarks of the policemen cannot possibly be recorded.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Canny Scot's Sense of Humor.

The reason a Scot does not laugh at a joke right away, says Dean Ramsay, is not, as is the popular fiction, that he is "slow in the uptake," but that the canny man will not commit himself. He must think it over before he donates the exact amount of laughter which the joke deserves. The Scot minister, who is Scotland's common public speaker, is aware, consciously or instinctively, of this trait, and his delivery of an anecdote with a point is a thing of unique art.

HIS FIRST RECOGNITION.

The Turning Point In the Career of Nathaniel Hawthorne.

The first reading of "The Scarlet Letter" has been told in T. W. Higginson's book of essays, "Contemporaries." The reading was given to the author's dearest critic, his wife. During the entire winter when he was at work upon the book he seemed oppressed by some secret anxiety.

"There was a knot in his forehead all the time," said Mrs. Hawthorne.

Finally one evening he went to her and said that he had written something which he would like to read aloud. The work amounted to very little, but still he would like to read it. All that evening he read, but as the romance was unfinished at bedtime his wife made no comments, knowing that he disliked criticism until one had heard the whole.

The next night he read again, and now her suspense grew so unendurable that in the midst of a moving

Witchcraft.

"The sixteenth and seventeenth centuries," said John Fiske, "were the flourishing ages of the witchcraft delusion. Witchcraft in the early ages was considered one of the greatest of crimes, as much so as murder, robbery or any other serious offense against the law, and the belief in it was shared by the whole human race until the latter part of the seventeenth century.

"In England in 1664 two women were tried before Sir Matthew Hale, charged with bewitching several girls and a baby, and they were put to death, for at that time the evidence seemed perfectly rational. In 1615 in Genoa 500 people were burned to death on the charge of witchcraft. It was the proud boast of a noted executioner in northern Italy at this time that in fifteen years he had assisted in burning 900 persons charged with sorcery. In Scotland between 1500 and 1600 8,000 people were put to death, an average of 200 a year. The last execution for witchcraft in England took place in 1712, in Scotland in 1722, in Germany in 1749 and in Spain in 1781."

George Meredith.

The legend that in his early days the late George Meridith was so poor that he invested all his funds in a sack of oatmeal, subsisting thereon while he wrote "Evan Harrington," is denied by Mr. J. A. Hammerton in his book "George Meredith In Anecdote and Criticism." One part of that picturesque if baseless story was to the effect that the novelist was not able to buy fuel and was accustomed to carry the bag of oatmeal across the rooms to keep himself warm.

Through Foreign Eyes.

Two foreigners were watching their first game of baseball.

"Dot vas a dangerous game, yah?" said the German.

"Eet must be, monsieur," replied the Frenchman. "Why, even ze catcher wears a muzzle to keep him from biting people!"—Chicago News.

It Didn't Fall Out.

"I see your hair is falling out, sir," remarked the hairdresser, who was getting ready to work the hair tonic idea on the customer.

"You don't see anything of the sort," rejoined his victim. "What you see is the sequel to a falling out between Mrs. Codgers and myself."—London Answers.

KING COAL.

While He Lives His Throne Is Fixed In the United States.

The part played by coal in the world's affairs can well be illustrated by assuming the available supply to be suddenly cut off. The huge railroad systems of America would stop at once. So also would the electric power and lighting in all cities and suburbs. Steamship service would cease everywhere. Transit facilities would be dead. Factories, manufactories and shops would close down. Vast industries like steel, iron, copper, etc., would cease. Armies of laborers would be thrown out of work. Mails, schools, the navy, newspapers, foreign and internal trade—all would cease to exist.' The trilogy governing commercial advance, heat, light and power, except a negligible amount of water, oil, etc., would be annihilated—all this until some other form of power could be developed. The possibility of such a cataclysm is not imminent, for coal will reign for some time yet and is destined to become a power whose capabilities have as yet been comparatively felt only more faintly than would a feather on the hide of an elephant.

The world needs coal. The United States has that coal to deliver. It will be wholly natural that so potent a necessity will make for continued peace and understanding among the powers of the world

The coal mines of Europe are sunk about 3,000 feet deep. Coal is still being quarried on the banks of the Ohio, and the mines of Europe are nearing the limit of commercial possibility The manufacturing supremacy of the old world is passing to the new. Coal is king, and while he lives his throne is fixed forever in the United States.—Metropolitan Magazine.

It is said that more coats in black and white, tan and gray, will be worn than in pinks and blues and colors.

Lime green is one of the new shades.

Lace gowns for evening are being trimmed with quillings and flower designs of narrow satin ribbon.

Evening coats and wraps are nearly all made with sleeves. There is no tremendous variety about them. They are nearly all three-quarter length, either plaited or cut circular, so as to fall in ample folds.

The boas and neck ruffs are of endless variety. They are always becoming, and as far as can be foretold there is no end to their future existence They are made of every color and design of chiffon, net, tulle, lace, mousseline and malines.

The striped velvets and velvetinas are very beautiful. An exquisite material of finest voile, with a three-quarter inch wide stripe of velvet, comes in several lovely shades. A violet verging on plum, a bronze green, taupe, fawn and a rich blue are some of the best colors.—New York Post.

Uncle Paid.

Many years ago Shuter a popular actor was engaged for a few nights by a principal city in the north of England It was in the coaching days and it happened that the stage in which he traveled started with but three outside passengers only an old gentleman and himself. It was stopped by a highway man

The old gentleman produced a purse and Shuter resolved to have some fun with him. As expected when the highwayman presented his pistol and demanded Shuter followed suit and presented his empty purse. The highwayman declared he was an old soldier and could not afford to be robbed of his money when Shuter replied that he was a soldier too and would not rob a brother soldier. Upon which the highwayman gave him a few curses for his stupidity complimented the old gentleman with a smart slap on the face to awaken him and robbed him of every shilling he had in his pocket, while Shuter who did not lose a single farthing with great satisfaction and merriment pursued his journey, laughing heartily at his fellow traveler.

Cooking on the Train.

Our guide allowed me to assist him in preparing the breakfast, though I fancy my assistance might have been easily dispensed with. He sagely remarked that if I was going to rough it I might as well begin learning now as any time. It was astonishing how appetizing a meat he prepared with the very fewest conveniences. For instance, he made bread in the sack of flour without using a bread pan. He hollowed out a cavity in the flour, poured in water, added salt and baking powder in proper quantities, then proceeded to mix the dough He did another thing in his cooking that amused me very much. To prevent the coffee boiling over he placed a small willow stick across the open top of the pot The lesson in physics soon followed The coffee bubbled and then rushed up to the top of the pot as though it was going to boil over the sides and extinguish the fire, but as soon as it touched the willow it subsided like some sentient thing.—Forest and Stream

For Benefit of Women who Suffer from Female Ills

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused a weakness and broken down condition of the system. I read so much of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other suffering women I felt sure it would help me, and I must say it did help me wonderfully. My pains all left me, I grew stronger, and within three months I was a perfectly well woman.

"I want this letter made public to show the benefit women may derive from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. JOHN G. MOLDAN, 2115 Second St., North, Minneapolis, Minn.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials like the above prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made exclusively from roots and herbs.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

A. H. ANDERSON

AN APPRECIATION

Those persons who keep in touch with political history in its making will readily recall the fact that four years ago, when the office of State Senate was to be filled in the 46th senatorial district, A. H. Anderson of Peters Township, received an overwhelming majority in his native county, Washington. It is not a difficult feat for the memory to recall that under the conferee system then in vogue, there was a dead lock for some time in the matter of a choice between Mr. Anderson and the Greene county nominee, which finally resulted in the selection of the latter as the candidate of the Republican party.

Mr. Anderson was disappointed, to be sure. He had made a hard canvass of the district; he had put forth every honest effort in his power to secure the nomination; he had received a heavy vote in his own county, yet lost the fruits of it all through the decision of the umpire chosen by the Republican state committee. Mr. Anderson did not sulk, however, but bent his energies in the direction of the success of the nominee and the entire party ticket at the election in the fal, and urged his friends to help him in his loyal support of those who had been chosen as the peple's standard bearers.

The Washington Journal, in its issue of September 27, 1906 has the following editorial comment in the situation:

"Of course, Anderson will support the ticket. He is too game a fighter to sulk in his tent because he was defeated. He is stronger today in his party councils and higher in the esteem of his fellow workers in the ranks than ever before. The loyalty of his support and the openly expressed regrets at his defeat are something unusual in party history and should be received by him as high compliments loyally bestowed.

"If any misguided politician imagines that such a victory as that of last Monday can check the rise of Anderson he has reckoned without his host. His friends cling closer to him in defeat than they did in the prospect of victory and his triumphant nomination and election at some future day is a foregone conclusion."

Following the choie of the Greene county nominee, the Washington Observer, under date of Tuesday, September 25, 1906, had the following words of praise for Mr. Anderson and his attitude in its editorial columns:

"The conferees of the Republican party of the 46th district were unable to nominate a candidate for state senate, the decision being made by the referee selected by the Republican chairman. The result of this rule was the nomination of Hon. D. S. Walton of Greene county.

"A. H. Anderson, who was the choice of the Republicans of this county, and who was favored by the Observer and the Washington county Republicans, not only because of his qualifications for the place, but on account of having been nominated by the free choice of the Republican electors by a very large majority, accepts his defeat graciously. He made a splendid fight and rallied to his support a host of Republicans who worked enthusiastically for his nomination. Mr. Anderson comes out of the contest with flying colors, though defeated. He is young. He has a future before him. THE FUTURE HAS NOT BEEN INJURED BY THE PRESENT RESULT. IT HAS BEEN HELPED, AND HE MAY BE EXPECTED TO BE A FACTOR IN THE REPUBLICAN PARTY. TRUE TO HIS IDEAS OF REPUBLICANISM, HE IS FOR THE TICKET AND HE WILL BE FOUND WORKING FOR WALTON JUST THE SAME AS IF HE HAD BEEN CHOSEN HIMSELF. HE IS A REPUBLICAN AND BELIEVES THAT REPUBLICAN PRINCIPALS ARE MORE IMPORTANT THAN OFFICE"

And Mr. Anderson was FOR THE TICKET—He worked for it, helped it, stood by it, because he was a Republican and believed that Republican principles were more important than office.

He has always been a Republican. He has not followed after strange fancies in politics. He was not identified with the Citizens party; he was not part and parcel of the Lincoln party, those two organizations that tried to defeat two Republican tickets in this county. He did not sit on the stage of the Washington opera house and vigorously applaud the words of Lewis Emery when he attacked the party and its nominee for Governor, the Hon. Edwin S. Stuart.

And Mr. Anderson did become a factor in the Republican party of Washington county. As its chairman he guided the party through a troublous year to success. He has given unsparingly of time and labor to its advancement and its victories over those who would encompass its defeat for the purpose of attaining selfish ends.

The Republicans of the 46th district believe in fair pay—THEY STAND FOR LOYALTY AND POLITCAL HONESTY. They know how Anderson has stood on all matters affecting the party. He has been four square.

Another primary is near at hand. Mr. Anderson is again a candidate for nomination for the office of state senate. His record is before the voters. The clean pages of his life are spread forth to the gaze of men. As a AREPUBLICN NOW AND ALWAYS he faces the voters of the district and asks them to grant him their support.

T. L. Kennedy Treats His Workmen Fairly

New Brighton, Pa., May 30, 1910:

To the Workingmen of Beaver, Washington and Lawrence Counties:--

We, the undersigned employees of the M. T. and S. Kennedy Company, of which Hon. T. L. Kennedy is a member, have heard that enemies of his nomination for Congress, are circulating stories to prejudice the workingmen against Mr. Kennedy.

These are to the effect that he and his company have not given their men fair treatment; one story is about a man losing his hand, after which they gave him work at $2.50 a day until the time for entering a suit had passed and then discharged him. Another is that there have been numerous strikes.

Now we wish to say that we have worked for the M. T. & S. Kennedy Company the number of years set opposite our names and during that time the company has always treated its men fair and just.

There has never been a strike among the men. The only strike was among the boys and lasted but a short time.

No employee has ever lost a hand. The company and Mr. T. L. Kennedy as manager of the New Brighton factory has always been careful to see that guards for protection from accident were in place. When an accident has occured generous and fair treatment has always been afforded the unfortunate workman by Mr. Kennedy and the company.

STATEMENTS TO THE CONTRARY ARE ABSOLUTELY UNTRUE AND UNJUST.

We make this statement voluntarily and feel we are doing only what is right to a man and company that bears a record not surpassed by any employer of labor in the state of Pennsylvania.

William Feeney

The Workingman's Candidate for Assembly

Wm. Feeney, the workingman's Candidate for Assembly.

Miner. Broad minded enough to represent the interests of the people.

Wm. Feeney stands squarely on the platform adopted by the New Castle Convention.

Wm. Feeney will represent the interests of the Workingman because he is one of them NOW.

Wm. Feeney believes there is nothing too good for the children of the people, and for that reason believes in a most liberal and honest expenditure of state funds for school purposes, and a better High School System for all the school districts, county as well as city.

Wm Feeney is progressive, believes in good Roads, and in paying a salary to county officers and abolishing the Fee System

Wm. Feeney is a man of character. Vote for him; he will represent you honestly.

PLAIN PEOPLE WILL HAVE SAY

Lesson Taught by Last Gubernatorial Convention to be Followed This Month

WHO THE REAL BOSSES ARE

Mr. Bryan Has Served Notice on an Ohio Opponent to Keep Off the Political Grass and Will Battle For Supremacy in This State.

United States Senator Boies Penrose, the accepted leader of the regular Republican organization in Pennsylvania, is harsh and unreasonable according to the Democratic estimate simply because he has positively refused even to attempt at dictation so far as the Republican candidate for Governor is concerned. Senator Penrose is a heartless party boss from a Democratic standpoint simply because he refused absolutely to boss his party. Of course the esteem in which the senior senator from Pennsylvania is held by the leaders of the Republican party in this State naturally gives him a prestige and standing in the council's of his party and because that prestige and standing are not employed for selfish purposes he is designated as boss pure and simple. After all, however, it is for the Republicans of the State to laugh. In the matter of a gubernatorial candidate Senator Penrose has put the question up to the members of the Republican party of the State. The election of the candidate, whoever he may be, must rest with the members of the party and Senator Penrose has mildly and wisely put the responsibility of the selection of that candidate exactly where it belongs. The forceful lesson taught by the convention which nominated Edwin S. Stuart for Governor has not been lost. There were several strong candidates before that convention and the delegates went about their work of selecting a standard-bearer with great deliberation. Every political element appearing in the gathering was carefully and cautiously weighed and the nomination of Governor Stuart resulted. An occasional political boss throughout the State was disappointed and to some extent disgruntled on account of the Stuart nomination, but the nomination had come direct from the hands of the people and when the people have their say the bosses, great and small, are usually compelled to sit up and take notice. The indications are that the Republicans of the State will apply the same methods at the coming State convention and very naturally the Democrats are already in despair over the prospects. The election of Governor Stuart was emphatic notice to the bosses in Republican politics that the people must be reckoned with in all conventions and his administration has plucked insurgency, root and branch from the Republican party in the State and has given the best possible guarantee that whoever the Republican candidate may be to succeed him will be elected by a safe and easy majority. Governor Stuart has fixed a high standard. He has been gracious and modest and above and beyond all he has been the Governor of the whole people. He more than any boss or leader has guaranteed Republican supremacy to Pennsylvania. The aspirant for the Governorship best equipped to carry out the policies and practices inaugurated by Governor Stuart is practically certain to be nominated as his successor.

Naturally these conditions are not pleasing to the Democrats. They are being twisted and torn with factional bitterness. They are fighting for the supremacy of this or that boss with neither policy nor principle involved, and no one realizes this situation better than Senator Penrose, who is cruel enough to stand aside while the real bosses go to a finish in their war of extermination. The Democratic boss who in the past refused to bow to the will of the greatest of all bosses, W. J. Bryan, must now step up to the political cashier and settle. Governor Harmon, of Ohio is the latest victim of the Bryan wrath. The Ohio Governor has intimated his willingness to be the Democratic candidate for President. He refused some time in the yet unburied past to stand for Bryan in his lofty ambition to hoist himself into the White House and now Governor Harmon has had emphatic notice from Bryan to keep off the Bryan grass. Colonel Guffey, the Pennsylvanian leader of the Democracy, has had similar notice served upon him and both must either obey or fight a mighty battle for their disobedience. The Republican delegates, elected by the Republicans for their several districts will, in State convention, name the Republican candidate for Governor. That is why the Democrats are shouting themselves hoarse about Senator Penrose and others in the Republican party who refuse to boss or be bossed. The Democrats, when they gather in their mock convention, will register either the will of Mr. Bryan or the power of Colonel Guffey. If Mr. Bryan has his way, and he will fight hard to get it, W. H. Berry will be the Democratic candidate for Governor. Mr. Bryan has no compromise to offer. He is for rule or ruin. Colonel Guffey will be satisfied with any other Democrat in the State. Of course there is no bossism in Democracy. Senator Penrose is the only boss and he is a boss only in the minds of those Democrats who are provoked at the situation in the State and who want him to interfere with the assured success of the Republican party.

As the primary contests in the State approach there are a few things worth knowing by voters of every party. In districts where the purpose is to have Republicans vote for the nomination of Democrats or Democrats vote for Republicans election boards must be governed by the second paragraph, section 10, of the act of 1906, which says:

Each elector shall have the right to receive the ballot of the party for which he asks: Provided, that if he is challenged he shall be required to make oath or affirmation that, at the next preceding general election at which he voted he voted for a majority of the candidates of the party for whose ballot he asks.

The appended facts are also of interest to the average voter in Pennsylvania:

Primary election, June 4. General election, Nov. 8. Democratic State convention, Allentown, June 15. Republican State convention, Harrisburg, June 22. Prohibition State convention, Harrisburg, July 1. Last day to be assessed for November election, Wednesday, Sept 7. Last day for filing certificate of nomination, made by State conventions with the secretary of the commonwealth, Tuesday, Sept 27. Last day for filing nomination papers of candidates for Congress or any State office, for November election, with the secretary of the commonwealth, Tuesday, Oct 4. Last day to pay taxes to qualify for the November election, Saturday, Oct 8. Last day for filing nomination papers for November election with the county commissioners, Tuesday, Oct. 18. No such papers can be filed this year unless a special election is being held in the county to fill some local office. Last day for filing statement of expenses for November election, Thursday, Dec. 8.

A Fashion Garrick Killed.

Women of England in the eighteenth century wore large hats. Samuel Rogers once traveled to Ranelagh in the same coach with a woman who was compelled to sit on a stool on the floor of the coach on account of the inconvenient height of her headdress. Hannah More, who was all for simplicity in costume, writes in her diary that she has seen women wearing on their heads "an acre and a half of shrubbery, besides slopes, grass plats, tulip beds, clumps of peonies, kitchen gardens and greenhouses." The credit of killing this fashion is given to Garrick. He appeared one night on the stage with a mass of vegetables on his head and a carrot suspended from each side, to the shame and confusion of many fair members of his audience."

FOR ASSEMBLY

Republican Chairman

C. Wesley Yarnall

DR. C. WESLEY YARNALL of California, has formally announced himself as a candidate for the Assembly on the Republican ticket at the Spring primaries, and from now on proposes to make an aggressive campaign in favor of his candidacy.

Dr. C. Wesley Yarnall is the son of Rev. J. V. Yarnall, deceased, of the Pittsburg M. E. Conference. He was born in Claysville, Pa., in 1860. His early education was obtained in the public schools of the county and the Normal School of California. Later he mined coal and taught school, which enabled him to take a three-year elective course at Allegheny College, Crawford county, Pa., in preparation for medicine. Finding himself in no financial condition to enter a medical college at that time, he entered the Railway Mail Service between Pittsburg and New York for six years, earned enough to enter Jefferson College, Philadelphia, Pa., graduating in the class of 1889. He then engaged in the practice of medicine in Roscoe and Beallsville, Pa., until 1899 when he took a post graduate course at the Post Graduate College, of New York City, and in the fall of the same year he resumed practice in California, where he is at present located. The doctor is one of the oldest members of the I. O. O. F. of this district and belongs to several other fraternal organizations. Lately he has been active in organizing the F. O. E. and L. O. O. M. lodges. He has been an active Republican during his political life, and he says that he supported nine out of every ten of the successful candidates for office during the past twenty-five years. A return of this favor will be very much appreciated. The doctor also intends to make an active canvass and asks the help and support of all his friends and also promises in return to work for the best interests of Washington county. His platform is brief, progressive policies, approved by the Republican organization, beneficial to the greatest number of people in the county and State.

If nominated and elected, I am in favor of personal registration, and better election laws.

I am in favor of the New School Code when perfected, and the highest Educational Standard for our Public School System.

I am in favor of the principle of Home Rule, and am against any measure on any subject that does not come clean, shows equity, and maintains justice to all parties concerned.

I am against graft and opposed to bossism in any shape it may appear, and in favor of clean political activity on the part of our leaders.

I am in favor of every honest dollar in our land, and in favor of every honest effort of labor in all classes, to better her condition, and to receive the just increase for her toil that is coming to her.

I am in favor of a Road Law that will set aside a part of each year's road tax and compel the use of the same for permanent Road Improvements according to fixed plans and specifications.

I am a Roosevelt Republican, and it was my duty as well as a privilege, to become acquainted with him while he was at the head of the Civil Service Commission in the 80's.

I believe the principles and policies he has given us as applied to Borough, Township, County and State government, will better our condition, and I am an enthusiastic supporter of the progressive policies for which he stands—a square deal to all, and that the rights of the people shall be observed.

Yours truly,

C. WESLEY YARNALL.

HE FED THE STAFF.

Fine Dinner For a Hungry Crowd on a Small Capital.

Years ago the late Senator E. W. Carmack was editor of the Nashville Democrat, a paper that had a precarious life and flickered out on Thanksgiving day.

When the staff came around on Thanksgiving afternoon Carmack met them with the announcement that the paper was dead and that they were all without jobs. This was sadder than it seems now, for the paper had not been paying salaries for some time.

"Boys," said Carmack, "it's all over. The sheet is dead. But we shall not want for a Thanksgiving day dinner. How much money have we?" A search of all pockets showed $19.70.

"Plenty," said Carmack. "Come with me."

They went to the best restaurant and sat down, and Carmack ordered a sumptuous dinner, with turkey and everything complete. After the dinner was over and the diners were smoking the best cigars the house had Carmack called the waiter in his grandest manner and said: "Boy, you have served us admirably. We are more than pleased. Here is a small sum to compensate you for your trouble and as a slight token of our gratification."

"Thank yo', boss," grinned the waiter; "thank yo'. But how about this yere check of $19.70 for that dinner you all just had?"

"Boy," exclaimed Carmack, "what is your status here? Are you a waiter or are you the financial manager of this concern?"

"'Deed, boss, I's only a waiter."

"Well, then," said Carmack, "don't trouble yourself about the financial affairs of the place. Leave that to the manager." And he stalked out, followed by the feasted staff.

But he paid when fortune smiled again.—Cleveland Leader.

Early Psychotherapy.

In the Epistle of James we find the early Christian rule of psychotherapy. It was adopted by the early church and for many centuries was a rule of faith and practice in the Christian church in all its branches. It is still a rule of conduct in some of the older churches, and some leaders in churches where the rule has lapsed begin to plead for its revival and for the assumption by the church of what are called its legitimate powers. St. James said: "Is any sick among you, let him call for the elders of the church, and let them pray over him, anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord. And the prayer of faith shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up, and if he have committed sins they shall be forgiven him."—Christian Register.

A Sad Case.

An Atchison man has lain in an unconscious state ever since 10 o'clock last night. Everything has been done to arouse him today, but all efforts are unavailing. His friends are greatly alarmed. They fear he may never regain consciousness. It seemed that yesterday evening right after dinner the man picked up his hat, put on his overcoat and, although his wife was sitting right in the room, she did not say, "Where are you going?" He walked out of the house. At 10 o'clock in the evening the man returned. He walked into the room where his wife sat and took off his hat and overcoat. She smiled at him pleasantly and did not say, "Where have you been?" The man fell unconscious to the floor.—Atchison Globe.

African Elephants.

In portions of Africa the natives believe when a herd of elephants is alarmed and runs away the bulls, if necessary, pick up and carry on their tusks the little ones which may not be able to keep up with the herd. These little ones when first born weigh not more than 200 pounds and of course might readily be carried, as stated. We do not know that any white man has ever seen this, but the natives insist that it is done.—Forest and Stream.

Raikes' Ragged Regiment.

"Bobby Wild Goose and his ragged regiment" was the name hooted after Robert Raikes, the first modern Sunday school advocate, and his scholars. The thoroughfare was Sooty alley, and the scholars were the ragged boys who toiled in the pin factories of Gloucester, England. Robert Raikes paid Mrs. Brandon, a poor woman, a shilling each Sunday to teach the boys the Bible. That was in 1780. Four years later there were 250,000 boys and girls attending Sunday school in the kingdom.—Delineator.

A Maker of Bulls.

Some excellent bulls are credited to William Arolin, who was a London police judge in the thirties of the last century. He once remarked to counsel, "If you can show precisely at what moment the offense was committed and prove that the prisoner was not there when he did it, he could not possibly have done it." And he sagely added, "We cannot divest ourselves of common sense in a court of justice." Of a similar character was an axiom he once delivered himself of, which has been maliciously fathered on many other occupants of the bench, "If ever there was a case of clearer evidence than this case, this case is that case."

The Only Way to Know.

Catherine had asked so many questions, and father was growing impatient. Finally he said, "Oh, Catherine, I can't answer half your questions."

"I know you can't, father, but then I do not know which half you can't answer."—Delineator.

A CHEERFUL OUTLOOK.

Making It Pleasant For the Studious Traveler.

An English tourist traveling on foot through one of our mountainous regions, studying the people, asked a man whom he met to direct him to a certain cabin at which he had been advised to stay overnight. "Going thar?" said the man. "Well, Tom's a first rater, take him just right, but he's mighty queer."

"What do you mean?" asked the traveler.

"Well, it's like this," and the man looked at the stranger in a calm, impersonal way. "He'll be setting outside, most probably, and he'll see you coming. He'll take a good look at you, and ef you don't suit him he may set the dog on you.

"Ef he don't and you get to talking with him and say anything he don't just like he may throw you down and tromp on you. But ef you're too careful in your talk, on the other hand, he's liable to take you for a spy and use his gun fust and listen to explanations afterward.

"But it's no use trying to get by without stopping," concluded the man, with evident relish of the prospect he was opening up to the stranger. "Ef you was to undertake that 'twould be all up with you, for he'd think you was proud and biggetty.

"Ef you want to come out of the mountain whole, don't go past Tom's cabin without stopping, whatever you do!"—Youth's Companion.

Steel Pen Helps Forgers.

The crime of forgery has been facilitated and increased by the modern introduction of metallic pens, gold and steel, says a writer in the Indianapolis News. The old fashioned quill pen was smooth and pleasant to write with, though it sometimes balked and sputtered, but it did not lend itself to skillful imitations as easily as the metallic pen does. The crime of forgery doubtless has been promoted by the almost universal education of modern times. In an age when everybody writes and when many are skillful penmen forgeries are much more frequent than they were centuries ago, when the person who could handle a pen was an exception. Many modern criminals make a living by committing forgeries, victimizing hotels, banks, capitalists and business men generally.

Domestic Economy.

"Hey, mon," exclaimed the braw bonnie north countryman, "thrift is a wunnerful thing!"

"Yes," replied his English traveling companion. "You're right there. Now, I gave my wife a ten pound note to manage on last time I was away, and—would you believe it?—instead of exceeding it she saved nearly a sovereign out of it to buy herself a hat!"

"That's nowt," replied the Scotsman. "My wife gives the kids ha'pennies apiece to go to bed supperless; when they're asleep she takes the ha'pennies off on 'em ageean, and then she makes 'em do wi'out ony breakfasts for losin' 'em! Hey, mon, that's thrift!"—London Scraps.

She Was the Champion.

A colored woman of generous proportions was on the witness stand and she made such a good witness for the plaintiff that the attorney for the defense planned to throw "cold water" on what she said by finding fault with her character.

"Let me see—you have been arrested, haven't you?" the attorney asked in cross examination.

"Now, look a-heah," said the witness, getting angry, "do you think I'm goin' to tell you all my private business? I guess not."

"I have the right to know, and you must tell me," the lawyer persisted and the judge instructed the witness that she would have to answer.

"I's 'rested for lickin' my husban'," she said, her eyes flashing.

"That so?" said the attorney, with great satisfaction. "What is your husband's name?" She told him. "What is his business?"

"He's a prizefighter," she said, and the cross examination abruptly ended amid general merriment.—Indianapolis News.

Clerk's Elbow.

"To remove shiny spots from coat elbows and trousers seats," said a clerk—"I'll tell you how it is done."

The sun was strong on him as, upon his lofty stool, he munched his midday sandwich from thin, ink smeared fingers, but on his old clerk's coat and old trousers no shiny spots reflected the light.

"'Clerks' elbow' such spots are called," he said. "It's like housemaids' knee. To cure it you soak the glittering spot in cold water for half an hour. Then you take a teasel—that's a very stiff thistle—and you rub the spot with it till a nap or fuzz is raised up. Then with a clothesbrush you lay the nap down the right way, and, presto, the shine is gone!"—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Art of the Superior Smile.

The superior smile is a useful accomplishment for any young man. It is much in vogue at the universities, where it may be studied at its best on young Dons. Many men who learn nothing else at the universities learn this art and find it uncommonly useful in after life. It is an excellent cover for a naked mind and should be sought after by parliamentary candidates.—Oxford Varsity.

VEST'S CAMPAIGN SPEECH.

Why a Small Boy Persisted in Hearing It Every Day.

"Senator Vest was making a buggy campaign in southeast Missouri some years ago," said a Missouri official. "His driver was a small boy, who was duly impressed with the importance of his distinguished passenger.

"At each town visited by Vest the boy hurried his team to a convenient livery barn and then raced for the courthouse, or wherever the 'speakin'' was to take place, and perched himself with painful regularity on the front seat. He invariably turned his eyes on the senator and took in every word of the speech as if his very life depended on it.

"Finally the lad's continued conspicuous presence among his auditors annoyed the senator, and he kindly but firmly reminded the boy that it was not necessary for him to attend every meeting.

"'I make the same speech each time You have heard it often enough to know it by rote, so just put in your time in the future looking after the team,' he admonished his youthful driver.

"Despite the senator's objection, the boy was again in the front seat the next day and the following day. This enraged Vest, and he thundered:

"'Why do you persist in always occupying that front seat? Didn't I tell you I make the same speech every day? It's as old and stale to you as it is to me. Why insist on hearing it again and again?'

"'I want to see what you're going to do when you fergit it,' answered the boy. Vest capitulated."—St. Louis Republic.

THE ELEPHANT FLEET.

How It Is Used by the British Government in India.

Its elephant fleet is one of the strangest and most deadly departments maintained by the British government in India. It is a large fleet of coasting steamers specially built for the transport of elephants. India's population is one-fifth that of the entire globe. All these people use elephants. They use them for draft work and for tiger hunting, and in the arenas of the native states they even pit them against one another and against wild beasts. The elephant fleet transfers the animals from Dacca, the trapping and training headquarters, to the various districts whence comes the demand.

To get an elephant aboard ship is a difficult and dangerous task. The animal must wade through the surf to a stout raft, and this unknown surf, so white and tumultuous, often terrifies and maddens him. If in his fury he slaughters a mahout or two he cannot be greatly blamed. Once on the raft, his legs are tied to pegs, and the slow sail to the ship is uneventful. But now a great band must be arranged under the elephant's belly, and a crane must hoist him up some twenty or thirty feet to the deck. Here again the elephant cannot be set down as intractable if, losing his head in that unprecedented aerial journey, he murders some more mahouts. Very prosperous, albeit stained a little with mahouts' blood, the elephant fleet for many years has plied up and down the Indian coast, embarking and disembarking its heavy, unmanageable freight.—New York Press.

The Appreciation of Music.

If we would appreciate music aright we must remember that its beauty depends not upon the composer alone but upon ourselves also. Deep calls unto deep, and the harmony of sound, though appealing primarily to the outward ear, must be answered by a harmony from within ourselves. The more culture we bring to the hearing of music, the wider our sympathy, the more exquisite will be the echoes which it awakens in the soul. If we would understand the composer's message we must co-operate with him. We must reach out to him with all our faculties. If we do that, the revelation of music will ceaselessly renew its beauty, ever turning unimagined aspects to gladden us.—Redfern Mason in Atlantic.

An Ugly Looking Lizard.

Among the lizards of Australia the "thorny devil" (Moloch horridus) is unrivaled in its ugliness. From the tip of its nose to the end of its tail this lizard is covered with tubercles and spines, but in spite of its dangerous appearance it is quite harmless. It measures about seven inches in length. It has a flat body, a small head and a cylindrical tail. It frequents sandy places, feeds largely on ants and is more or less diurnal in habits. Its powerful limbs are furnished with strong claws, which it uses in digging the sand, in which it often lies wholly or partially buried.

Defined.

"What is the difference between firmness and obstinacy?" asked a young lady of her fiance.

"Firmness," was his gallant reply, "is a noble characteristic of women; obstinacy is a lamentable defect in men!"

A WOMAN'S INFLUENCE.

Effect It Produced on Her Husband's Business Affairs.

A delegation of young men lately waited on their employer's wife with the oddest request on record. "You see, madam," said the spokesman, "we want to have a half holiday every Saturday. Now, if you will be particularly nice to Mr. Page for a few days we'll go to him and ask"—

"Gentlemen," the lady haughtily interrupted, "do you imply that I do not understand what is due to my husband?"

"Oh, I know all about it, madam," the spokesman went on. "I'm married myself. Things go wrong in the house, and you're tired and cross at breakfast. Then we suffer at the office. You stay up late to chaperon your daughter at a ball, and we have more trouble at the office. You're a bit cross three mornings in succession for one reason or another, and we have a—a—terrible time at the office.

"You see how the matter stands and how greatly you will oblige us by being more than usually agreeable to Mr. Page for three or four days. The fourth day give him the best breakfast you can—everything that he likes best—and we'll get what we want in three minutes.

"Talk about a woman having no influence in the business! Why, the humor she's in has more effect than a bank failure or a boom in trade."

She thought she ought to be angry, but instead she laughed and agreed to the proposition, and four days later when they waited on the head of the firm he made the closing hour 12 o'clock and said never in the history of the firm had things run as satisfactorily as they had during the last four days.—London Tit-Bits.

Sight Lost and Restored.

A farmer's wife who had had much trouble with her servants was accosted by one of them.

"I fear I shall not be able to work much longer. I think I am going blind."

"Why, how is that? You seem to get along pretty well with your work."

"Yes, but I can no longer see any meat on my plate at dinner."

The farmer's wife understood, and the next day the servants were served with very large and very thin pieces of meat.

"How nice!" the girl exclaimed. "My sight has come back. I can see better than ever."

"How is that, Bella?" asked the mistress.

"Why, at this moment," replied Bella, "I can see the plate through the meat."—London Scraps.

Is Your Porch Useless Half The Day?

Make it a CHARM and a COMFORT ALWAYS

will make the sunniest, breeziest porch an inviting all-day living room, where you can read, sew, play games, or take a nap in perfect comfort. At night, a protected sleeping place for those who sleep out-of-doors in pleasant weather.

Vudor Porch Shades

shut out all sun-glare and wind, but let in ample light and air

They give the insider plenty of outlook, but the outsider gets no inlook. They really add another room to your house, as secluded and private as any and unapproached for healthful enjoyment, at a cost so low that it will surprise you.

The way Vudor Porch Shades are made, accounts for their great superiority. The slats are of tough, straight-grained wood, stained (not painted) in pleasing colors. And the warp is of seine twine, such as is used for fishing nets. They have heavy strips top and bottom, and are supplied with the best possible fixtures. They last for years and do not frazzle out at the ends, nor warp out of shape, as do the cheap bamboo screens.

Anyone who has a screw-driver can quickly put them up. They are easily raised or lowered and may be fastened at any desired height.

The only place to buy them in Charleroi is here
We have a full line which we are as glad to demonstrate as we are to endorse.

BISHOP WHITEHEAD TO DEDICATE NEW WINDOW

Diocese Head Will Conduct Services at Episcopal Church Sunday.

CORNER STONE BLESSING

Part of Ruins of Old St Thomas Church Brought Here by Local People.

The Rt. Rev. Courtlandt Whitehead L. T. D., bishop of the diocese of Pittsburg, Episcopal church, will be at St. Mary's Episcopal church next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock to confirm a large class, and at the same time dedicate a new memorial window recently placed in the church by the Young Ladies Altar Guild. The window is in memory of Rev. Joseph Doddridge, a pioneer missionary in Colonial times in this district. The bishop will also bless the old corner stone of St. Thomas church recently brought from that structure and placed in St. Mary's church.

The dedication of the memorial window, and the blessing of the St. Thomas corner stone will be attended with much ceremony. Rev. Joseph Doddridge, the missonary, to whom the window is dedicated, was a brother of Rev. Philip Doddridge the noted hymn writer, whose hymns are used in all churches of the Christian denominations.

The corner stone of the old St. Thomas church was recovered through the efforts of Rev. Shey and former pastors of St. Mary's church. The old St. Thomas church was one of the first Episcopal churches to be erected west of the Allegheny mountains, and one of the first to be erected by any denomination. It was located in Washington county not far from Brownsville.

Bishop Whitehead will arrive on Sunday and will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Daly at North Charleroi. He will address the Sunday School Sunday morning, and conduct the ante-communion service.

CORNER STONE LAID AT NEW MONESSEN LUTHERAN CHURCH

The corner stone of the new St Paul Lutheran church at Monessen, was laid Sunday with impressive ceremonies. In the absence of a pastor, Rev. F. J. Howard having recently resigned a former pastor, Rev. M. M. Albeck of Monongahela had charge of the exercises. Among the speakers were Rev. J. Elmer Bittle, missionary superintendent of the Pittsburg Synod, Rev. J. K. Hilty, of Indiana, Pa., and Rev. C. E. Frontz of Charleroi, secretary of the Pittsburg Synod. Local pastors also assisted.

Large Shipment.

The largest shipment of express this year on one train from the Charleroi office of the Adams Express company was made yesterday, when on the second section of south bound train due here at 7:58. 15,055 pounds of meat were shipped.

Charleroi was unusually well regulated on Memorial Day. The police kept strict watch, but there were only two arrests, these for drunkeness.

Schmeiler, the meat market man of Fallowfield avenue, will also be in line with a float. Councilman Schmeiler isanother business man who doesn't do things by half.

DEAD ARE HONORED

Lives of War Heroes Commemorated in Many Places.

Memorial Day was generally observed as a holiday in Charleroi. The stores were practically all closed at least part of the day, and many attended elsewhere the services held for the dead heroes of the War of the Rebellion. The Charleroi Boys Brigade went to Fayette City in the morning and participated in services which were held there, while the Washington Avenue Presbyterian Boys Brigade went to Belle Vernon, to take a part in services.

The only event of more than usual interest in Charleroi during the day were the two baseball games of the Church League, one in the morning and one in the afternoon. The afternoon game drew out one of the largest crowds that has been seen on the local baseball ground for many a day.

Eldora Park attracted large numbers during the morning, afternoon and evening, and dancing was a feature there. The weather conditions interferred to some extent with the enjoyment of the day, but did not prevent people from decorating their homes and observing the holiday.

TROUBLE FOR THE LAME, THE HALT AND THE BLIND

Processions of Invalids Strike Charleroi for Memorial Day Work---One Extremely Odoriferious.

Cripples and diseased men swooped down on Charleroi yesterday for a rich harvest, but failed to get out of town in time, Chief Albright and his men pulling in seven this morning. One of the seven was a man with a bad disease, who was here to glean what he could from the people, when he should have been in the hospital. The man's flesh was actually rotten in some places, and he carried an odor like the carcass of some dead animal.

The others were arrested for begging on the streets. These couldn't scrape up a disease and had burned their arms or their bodies in such a manner as to give them a horrible appearance. In this way they worked on the sympathies of the people. What will be done with the men arrested is a question, but the least will be to chase them out of town.

PRESBYTERIANS AND LUTHERANS WIN

Baptists Lose Morning Game to the Washington Avenues; Score 12 to 4

The Lutherans barely came out victorious in the afternoon game with the Methodists yesterday, by the score of 7 to 6. The game was one of the best that been played on the local grounds thus far this season. The Lutherans started off well and scored one run in their half of the first. By dint of hard work they chased another man around the bags in the third, and in the fourth scored four runs on a series of hits and misplays. One in the seventh completed their tallying. One in the fourth, one in the fifth, two in the sixth, one in the seventh and one in the ninth was the best the M. E.'s could do. The score:

									R.	H.	E.
Lutherans	1	0	1	4	0	0	1	0	x	7	7	5
Methodists	0	0	0	1	1	2	1	0	1	6	9	5

Batteries—Lutherans, Miller and Fisher. Methodists, Pollock and Bege. Struck out—by Miller 9, by Pollock 8. Two base hit Balza. Base on balls—Off Miller 2, off Pollock 2. Upmire—Byland.

Methodists Put Up Good Contest, but Are Nosed Out by Opponents

The Washington Avenue Presbyterians gave the Baptists a decided drubbing in the morning game yesterday, in what was with the exception of two bad innings a good game. The Baptists started off well, and scored the first run, one in the third inning. In their part of the third, however, the Washington Avenues retaliated by scoring four runs. By a combination of hits, errors and misplays they succeeded in getting seven more in the fifth inning, and by the same methods got one in the sixth. The Baptists tried hard at the latter part of the contest to do something, and did succeed in getting one around in the eighth and two in the ninth innings. Osborne pitched a good game. The score:

									R.	H.	E.
W. A. P.	0	0	4	0	7	1	0	0	x	12	7	6
Baptists	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	1	2	4	7	8

Batteries—W. A. Presbyterians, Osborne and Carmell. Baptists—R Allshouse, Kearns and Mason. Struck out—by Osborne 8, by Allshouse 6, by Kearns 2. Two base hits—Barrass and Mitchell. Umpires—Mathias and Byland.

FORMER CHARLEROI RESIDENT IS DEAD

Richard Parks, Sr., Succumbs to Complication of Diseases at Donora

Richard Parks, Sr., 69 years old of Donora, formerly of Charleroi, died Sunday morning at 9:45 o'clock at his home from a complication of diseases. Mr. Parks had been sick about six weeks, and from the first fears were entertained for his recovery. The funeral will be held from the late home Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and interment will be in the Monongahela cemetery.

Mr. Parks is survived by eight sons and daughters, among whom is Former Councilman William Parks of Charleroi, who is now located in Artesia, New Mexico. Two daughters, Mrs. M. Wilson and Miss Emma, and one son Richard live in Charleroi. Other children are: Mrs. A. C. Spence of Washington; Mrs. Louise Boyer of Donora; Mrs. William Williams of Floreffe; George of Artesia, New Mexico. He was twice married and is survived by his second wife. Two sisters also survive, one who lives in England now being on her way here to attend the funeral. The other sister resides in Australia.

MABEL COOK DIES AT BELLE VERNON

Mabel Garrett Cook, 25 years old, daughter of the late Joseph and Violet Cook of Belle Vernon died at 12:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at her home The funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the late home, and interment will be in Rehoboth cemetery. The deceased was well known in Charleroi and other valley places, where she had many friends who regret to learn of her demise.

TWO KILLED AND ONE IS INJURED

Auto Accident at Marianna Results in Death of Washington Men

In trying, it is believed, to drive the 18 miles from Mariana to Washington in thirty minutes, a party of three men in an automobile was wrecked early Sunday morning, two being instantly killed and the other fatally hurt.

The dead are John Datig, 30 years old; Harry Wheatley, 37 years old.

The injured are: Charles Babbett, aged 25, crushed about the chest, at Memorial hospital, Monongahela, with no chance of recovery. All the victims are from Washington.

The party left Washington late Saturday night in Datig's car to attend a banquet at a club at Marianna. As they left the club Datig is said to have declared that he would make the return trip in half an hour flat. A few minutes later the three men lay beneath the debris of Datig's machine, which had crashed into the abutment of the Monongahela and Washintgon railroad bridge near Mariana. The wreck was discovered by a passing auto. An engine and caboose on the railroad was flagged and took the dead and injured people to Monongahela.

Mr. Wheatley, who is a relative of Mrs. George Arnold, of McKean avenue, was well known in Charleroi.

Card of Thanks.

We sincerely thank our friends and neighbors, also the nurses and doctors at the Charleroi-Monessen hospital for their assistance rendered during the sickness of the late Mrs. Mary Evequoz.

IS DRAGGED MANY RODS

Little Florence Schwartz Has Miraculous Escape From Death.

Florence the six-year-old daughter of Jacob Schwartz, the Fallowfield avenue clothier, had a narrow escape from death or very serious injury when she was caught under the wheels of a street car on Fallowfield avenue Saturday. The girl was dragged from Sixth street to in front of Frank Riva's store, before the motorman became aware of the accident. The main injuries were about the face, and head, the most serious one being a cut in the back of the head two inches long.

The girl was down street with two other Schwartz children. Florence started to cross Fallowfield avenue, at Sixth street, just as the car due at 6 o'clock was pulling in. It was running slow, and the motorman did not notice the little girl directly in his path. She did not notice the approaching car, and was hit and thrown under. Instinctively she grabbed for a rod, and succeeded in grasping it and holding on, this probably saving her life. The motorman put on more speed, but attracted by the cries of spectators stopped in front of Riva's store, and the girl was released from her predicament, lapsing into unconsciousness the moment she was taken from under the car. She was carried to a physician's office and the wounds dressed, after which she was taken home.

This morning the girl is in a rather bad shape, partly from the shock. Both eyes are practically closed by bruises sustained on the face.

QUEER FAMILY MIXUP RESULTS FROM DEATH

Last week Mrs. S. J. Cocain of Donora and Edward Ross of the same place were held for court at a hearing before 'Squire Hambry, on a charge of larceny and obtaining goods under false pretense. The prosecutor is Leo Meszner, of Allegheny. Meszner claims that the man shot opposite California a few weeks ago was his son. Mrs. Cocain and some of her immediate friends and relatives identified the body as that of her brother, and buried it as such. Meszner came from Pittsburg, and claimed that it was his son, and that he had a right to the effects which were held by Mrs. Cocain and Ross. He brought suit.

Lodge 494 to Visit Lawrence County Amusement Ground This Year

MANY EXPECTED TO GO

Committees Now at Work Arranging Incidentals for the Affair.

The Elks' picnic will be held this year at Cascade Park. Special train will leave Brownsville at 7:30 Wednesday morning, June 8, "our time" over the P. and L. E. railroad. Charleroi Elks will take the train at Monessen. The fare for round trip will be $1.00 for adults, children half fare. Last year this lodge went to Shady Grove Park where they had a most enjoyable outing. But those having the picnic in charge this year decided to go to Cascade. This is one of the most beautiful parks within easy reach of Charleroi, and the committee is to be congratulated on securing a date. If the weather is favorable the excursion will take the largest crowd out of Charleroi this season.

This park is near New Castle, and the Elks have a special train all the way which will leave for home at 7 o'clock. This will get the excursion back shortly after dark. The committee having this annual picnic in charge is composed of E. I. Brown, T. H. Warrensford, S. K. Long, R. J. McKean, L. F. Barker, F. E Adams, J. B. Tussing, R. E. Hoopes.

COUPLE WEDDED AT ST. JEROME'S CHURCH

This morning at 9 o'clock at St. Jerome's Catholic church took place the marriage of Miss Mary O'Rourke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel O'Rourke of Vesta and Anthony L. Glasser son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Glasser, of Fallowfield avenue. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. D. Fries, and the attendants were Miss Anna Heyder and Patrick O'Rourke, a brother of the bride. The couple will not take any trip at present. Mr. Glasser is an employe at the Imerial Bottle Works and is the first baseman on the Catholic team of the Charleroi Church league. The bride is also a popular young lady in her community.

Mr. Kennedy's Record.

The following from the Washington Record relative to the record of T. L. Kennedy is timely, in view of the fact that the latter is endeavoring to make an issue to his advantage out of what he formerly opposed when a member of the Legislature. The Record says:

"It is certainly conceded it is the right of every law abiding citizen of the United States to aspire to office, and Thomas L. Kennedy, candidate for Congress against John K. Tener is no exception, but the minute a man asks the surffage of the people he throws his entire public career open to those who may seek to judge. When he attempts to shield this it is taken as positive evidence that there is something wrong.

"We have read the accounts of the harrangues delivered by Mr. Kennedy's band of 'muck rakers,' but there has not been one whisper from them relative to his legislative career during the sessions of 1901 and 1905, therefore we consider it a duty to the voters to inquire into his record in this respect, and from cold facts we find that there was never a man in the legislative hall of this State who bore the stamp of bossism as did this same Mr. Kennedy, who now censures others for doing things that he assisted in doing.

"Not only did he do as he was bid, but when a measure came up that he was afraid to face he "dodged" and thus his colleagues soon became to know him as "dodger." The House journal shows that he "dodged" certain important measures by leaving the chamber, and then would appear immediately afterwards to cast his vote on some unimportant matter, and it is this same man who now promise his constituents to appear in Washington and overthrow this present Republicn form of Government, if his words are to be taken seriously.

"We are also in receipt of Mr. Kennedy's campaign card, and the thought strikes us that it is ill advised when one even suggests the support of a man who does not know how the body to which he hopes to become a member, is constituted. Our school books teach us that Congress is comprised of a Senate and a House of Representatives, yet Mr. Kennedy announces on his campaign cards that Beaver county "has had but two members of Congress in fifty-three years," namely, we presume, Mr. Townsend and Mr. Shallenberger, and it is unfortunaate that Mr. Kennedy has so forgotten the name of Matthew Stanley Quay.

"Although Mr. Kennedy is now crying about Roosevelt policies in the face of the fact that on page 308, House Journal, 1905 session, it is shown he voted against the endorsement of Roosevelt's policy on the subject of rebates, yet he does not mention President Taft; therefore it strikes us that by his own omissions he is no longer a Republican.

"Everything that has been said or done by or for Mr. Kennedy is chock full of inconsistencies, and we are only led to believe that he has been made the victim of the spleen of disgruntled politicians and men whose hopes of perpetual office holding has been cut short by the ideas possessed by John K. Tener that there should be an equitable distribution of the same.

"They may take Mr. Kennedy seriously in his own town, but when he comes to Washington county with an Acheson tag tied to him, and scatters worn out complaints invented by the ex-boss as an excuse for his own defeat, we are inclined to take Mr. Kennedy's candidacy as a huge joke."

Mr. Kennedy was elected as an Assemblyman from Beaver county, Senator Matthew Stanley Quay's home county. The former was one of the Senator's own, and "went along" and did as he was bid. With this record his issue of bossism will not be accepted with good grace by the voters of the district.

Voters Responsible

According to the returns from the primary elections held by both parties in Ohio and Indiana neither party cast over one-third of its total vote. The result is that the tickets are nominated by less than one-eighth of the voting strentgh of each party, and does not by any means represent a popular choice. Yet in nine cases out of ten, the nomination of the dominant party is equivalent to an election. When only the interested politicians turn out at the primaries, it is possible to nominate slated candidates. This is what leads to political crookedness, yet no one is to blame for it but the voters themselves, as by their indifference they permit the conditions they kick about when it is too late to apply a remedy.

In our coming election the representatives to be chosen to our State Legislature have a personal bearing on every man, woman and child in the Commonwealth. These are the legislators who must make laws to safeguard life and property, to uphold the morals of society, to promote and extend our public schools, to establish lines of communication which have a a direct bearing upon the prosperity of the State, and to see that every person has a square deal. Various interests are accused of putting up candidates for their own benefit, yet the people as a whole, who are affected in dollars and cents to a greater extent proportionately than any special interest, remain indifferent, do not look over the candidates, and either vote to please some one else, or remain away from the polls altogether. Is it any wonder that the evils of misgovernment prevail? Heaven helps those who help themselves, and the voter who trusts in God but stays away from the polls will find himself and family lost in the shuffle.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

The way some of us strive to gain something which we have no business to have, is evidence of the foolhardiness of humans.

While it was formerly the man with a record as long as a house that was the envied, now it is the woman with the record of not having missed a Sunday service in Sunday school for a score or more years that attracts the attention.

The superstitious might get up some kind of special superstition for a certain day in the month, on account of Halley's comet.

Euphemism is that which enables a man to say he is a free lance, when he is out of a job.

Among some of the millionaire folks it is considered little less than a disgrace for the really eligible daughter to marry anything less than a duke.

Will the sinner who is trying to get religion by borrowing the ecclesiastical sign from the front porch of the Unitarian church please return it to Rev. R. S. Many persons who desire to call up their conscience find the line busy.

While many profess to believe in palmistry, it is noticeable that the believers are usually of the unmarried slice of humanity.

A LION HUNT.

Usually a Case In Which Hunters Goad the Game Into Combat.

There is a distinction in Africa between ordinary lions and "man eaters," says T. R. MacMechen in McClure's Magazine. The ordinary lion does not willfully attack man. The presence of lions roaming at night on the veldt is not disturbing to any native nor to whites who have come to understand the beast. Persons returning to their camps after nightfall do not notice the roaring of lions or the cries of leopards or hyenas.

It is seldom that people bent upon domestic errands carry weapons in the darkness, although at night the veldt of British East Africa is alive with roaming beasts, which may be heard from the verandas of the houses. Lions give the passing man a wide berth, day or night, when it is apparent that he means no mischief. An ordinary lion, even when wounded, will try flight before fight. When its escape is disputed it will, especially if wounded, try to maul its enemy with teeth and claws.

A lion hunt is usually a chase in which the hunters goad the game into combat. Once a lion has tasted human blood, however, it is no more afraid of man, but learns that he is the weakest of animals and the choicest of meat. Such a lion is known as a man eater because now he hunts man.

Happiness and Joy.

Happiness, according to the original use of the term, is that which happens or comes to one by a hap—that is, by an outward befalling or favorable condition. It is what money yields or will buy—dress, equipage, fashion, luxuries of the table—or it is settlement in life, independence, love, applause, admiration, honor, glory, or the more conventional and public benefits of rank, political standing, victory, power—all these stir a delight in the soul, which is not of the soul or its quality, but from without; hence they are looked upon as happening to the soul and, in that sense, create happiness. Joy differs from this as being of the soul itself, originating in its quality. And this appears in the original form of the word, which instead of suggesting a hap literally denotes a leap or spring. * * * The motion is outward and not toward, as we conceive it to be in happiness. It is not the bliss of condition, but of character.—Dr. Horace Bushnell.

Concealed Weapons.

Once in a college town the rumor that students were carrying concealed weapons reached the ears of the local police. The chief at once issued stringent orders that the heinous practice should be stopped. One day a group of them passed a policeman, and one of the students in so doing put his hand to his hip pocket. Then, as if recollecting himself in time, he hastily withdrew it and looked sheepishly at the policeman.

"What have you in that pocket?" the latter asked sternly.

Instead of answering, the student and all his companions, as if panic stricken, started to run. After a chase all the students were cornered and ordered to deliver up whatever they had in their hip pockets.

Meekly they obeyed. Each one carried a corncob. The remarks of the policemen cannot possibly be recorded.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Canny Scot's Sense of Humor.

The reason a Scot does not laugh at a joke right away, says Dean Ramsay, is not, as is the popular fiction, that he is "slow in the uptake," but that the canny man will not commit himself. He must think it over before he donates the exact amount of laughter which the joke deserves. The Scot minister, who is Scotland's common public speaker, is aware, consciously or instinctively, of this trait, and his delivery of an anecdote with a point is a thing of unique art.

HIS FIRST RECOGNITION.

The Turning Point In the Career of Nathaniel Hawthorne.

The first reading of "The Scarlet Letter" has been told in T. W. Higginson's book of essays, "Contemporaries." The reading was given to the author's dearest critic, his wife. During the entire winter when he was at work upon the book he seemed oppressed by some secret anxiety.

"There was a knot in his forehead all the time," said Mrs. Hawthorne.

Finally one evening he went to her and said that he had written something which he would like to read aloud. The work amounted to very little, but still he would like to read it. All that evening he read, but as the romance was unfinished at bedtime his wife made no comments, knowing that he disliked criticism until one had heard the whole.

The next night he read again, and now her suspense grew so unendurable that in the midst of a moving

Witchcraft.

"The sixteenth and seventeenth centuries," said John Fiske, "were the flourishing ages of the witchcraft delusion. Witchcraft in the early ages was considered one of the greatest of crimes, as much so as murder, robbery or any other serious offense against the law, and the belief in it was shared by the whole human race until the latter part of the seventeenth century.

"In England in 1664 two women were tried before Sir Matthew Hale, charged with bewitching several girls and a baby, and they were put to death, for at that time the evidence seemed perfectly rational. In 1635 in Genoa 500 people were burned to death on the charge of witchcraft. It was the proud boast of a noted executioner in northern Italy at this time that in fifteen years he had assisted in burning 900 persons charged with sorcery. In Scotland between 1500 and 1600 8,000 people were put to death, an average of 200 a year. The last execution for witchcraft in England took place in 1712, in Scotland in 1722, in Germany in 1749 and in Spain in 1781."

George Meredith.

The legend that in his early days the late George Meridith was so poor that he invested all his funds in a sack of oatmeal, subsisting thereon while he wrote "Evan Harrington," is denied by Mr. J. A. Hammerton in his book "George Meredith In Anecdote and Criticism." One part of that picturesque if baseless story was to the effect that the novelist was not able to buy fuel and was accustomed to carry the bag of oatmeal across the rooms to keep himself warm.

Through Foreign Eyes.

Two foreigners were watching their first game of baseball.

"Dot vas a dangerous game, yah?" said the German.

"Eet must be, monsieur," replied the Frenchman. "Why, even ze catcher wears a muzzle to keep him from biting people!"—Chicago News.

It Didn't Fall Out.

"I see your hair is falling out, sir," remarked the hairdresser, who was getting ready to work the hair tonic idea on the customer.

"You don't see anything of the sort," rejoined his victim. "What you see is the sequel to a falling out between Mrs. Codgers and myself."—London Answers.

KING COAL.

While He Lives His Throne Is Fixed In the United States.

The part played by coal in the world's affairs can well be illustrated by assuming the available supply to be suddenly cut off. The huge railroad systems of America would stop at once. So also would the electric power and lighting in all cities and suburbs. Steamship service would cease everywhere. Transit facilities would be dead. Factories, manufactories and shops would close down. Vast industries like steel, iron, copper, etc., would cease. Armies of laborers would be thrown out of work. Mails, schools, the navy, newspapers, foreign and internal trade—all would cease to exist. The trilogy governing commercial advance, heat, light and power, except a negligible amount of water, oil, etc., would be annihilated—all this until some other form of power could be developed. The possibility of such a cataclysm is not imminent, for coal will reign for some time yet and is destined to become a power whose capabilities have as yet been comparatively felt only more faintly than would a feather on the hide of an elephant.

The world needs coal. The United States has that coal to deliver. It will be wholly natural that so potent a necessity will make for continued peace and understanding among the powers of the world.

The coal mines of Europe are sunk about 3,000 feet deep. Coal is still being quarried on the banks of the Ohio, and the mines of Europe are nearing the limit of commercial possibility. The manufacturing supremacy of the old world is passing to the new. Coal is king, and while he lives his throne is fixed forever in the United States.—Metropolitan Magazine.

It is said that more coats in black and white, tan and gray, will be worn than in pinks and blues and colors.

Lime green is one of the new shades.

Lace gowns for evening are being trimmed with quillings and flower designs of narrow satin ribbon.

Evening coats and wraps are nearly all made with sleeves. There is no tremendous variety about them. They are nearly all three-quarter length, either plaited or cut circular, so as to fall in ample folds.

The boas and neck ruffs are of endless variety. They are always becoming, and as far as can be foretold there is no end to their future existence. They are made of every color and design of chiffon, net, tulle, lace, mousseline and malines.

The striped velvets and velvetinas are very beautiful. An exquisite material of finest voile, with a three-quarter inch wide stripe of velvet, comes in several lovely shades. A violet verging on plum, a bronze green, taupe, fawn and a rich blue are some of the best colors.—New York Post.

Uncle Paid.

Many years ago Stuver, a popular actor, was engaged for a few nights in a principal city in the north of England. It was in the coaching days and it happened that the stage in which he traveled and in which there were only an old gentleman and himself was stopped by a single highwayman.

The old gentleman pretended to be asleep, but Stuver resolved to be even with him. Accordingly, when the highwayman presented his pistol and demanded Stuver to deliver his money instantly or he was a dead man, "Money!" returned he, with an air of the utmost surprise and countenance inexpressibly vacant. "Oh, lor', sir! They never trust me with any, for uncle always pays for me, turnpikes and all, your honor."

Upon which the highwayman gave him a few curses for his stupidity, emptied the old gentleman with a smart slap on the face to awaken him and robbed him of every shilling he had in his pocket, while Stuver, who did not lose a single farthing, with great satisfaction and merriment pursued his journey, laughing heartily at his fellow traveler.

Cooking on the Trail.

Our guide allowed me to assist him in preparing the breakfast, though I fancy my assistance might have been easily dispensed with. He sagely remarked that if I was going to rough it I might as well begin learning now as any time. It was astonishing how appetizing a meal he prepared with the very fewest conveniences. For instance, he made bread in the sack of flour without using a bread pan. He hollowed out a cavity in the flour, poured in water, added salt and baking powder in proper quantities, then proceeded to mix the dough. He did another thing in his cooking that amused me very much. To prevent the coffee boiling over he placed a small willow stick across the open top of the pot. The lesson in physics soon followed. The coffee bubbled and then rushed up to the top of the pot as though it was going to boil over the sides and extinguish the fire, but as soon as it touched the willow it subsided like some sentient thing.—Forest and Stream.

Solicitude.

"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Perkins, "didn't you say that horse you bought was a pedigree?"

"Yes," was the complacent reply.

"Well, I was just how unlucky you were with horses. I consulted a veterinary surgeon. You needn't worry. The docking she'll won't hurt him in the least."—Washington Star.

WANTS HER LETTER PUBLISHED

For Benefit of Women who Suffer from Female Ills

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused a weakness and broken down condition of the system. I read so much of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other suffering women I felt sure it would help me, and I must say it did help me wonderfully. My pains all left me, I grew stronger, and within three months I was a perfectly well woman.

"I want this letter made public to show the benefit women may derive from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. JOHN G. MOLDAN, 2115 Second St., North, Minneapolis, Minn.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials like the above prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made exclusively from roots and herbs.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

If you want special advice write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. She will treat your letter as strictly confidential. For 20 years she has been helping sick women in this way, free of charge. Don't hesitate—write at once.

A. H. ANDERSON

AN APPRECIATION

Those persons who keep in touch with political history in its making will readily recall the fact that four years ago, when the office of State Senate was to be filled in the 46th senatorial district, A. H. Anderson of Peters Township, received an overwhelming majority in his native county, Washington. It is not a difficult feat for the memory to recall that under the conferee system then in vogue, there was a dead lock for some time in the matter of a choice between Mr. Anderson and the Greene county nominee, which finally resulted in the selection of the latter as the candidate of the Republican party.

Mr. Anderson was disappointed, to be sure. He had made a hard canvass of the district; he had put forth every honest effort in his power to secure the nomination; he had received a heavy vote in his own county, yet lost the fruits of it all through the decision of the umpire chosen by the Republican state committee. Mr. Anderson did not sulk, however, but bent his energies in the direction of the success of the nominee and the entire party ticket at the election in the fal, and urged his friends to help him in his loyal support of those who had been chosen as the pepie's standard bearers.

The Washington Journal, in its issue of September 27, 1906 has the following editorial comment in the situation:

"Of course, Anderson will support the ticket. He is too game a fighter to sulk in his tent because he was defeated. He is stronger today in his party councils and higher in the esteem of his fellow workers in the ranks than ever before. The loyalty of his support and the openly expressed regrets at his defeat are something unusual in party history and should be received by him as high compliments loyally bestowed.

"If any misguided politician imagines that such a victory as that of last Monday can check the rise of Anderson he has reckoned without his host. His friends cling closer to him in defeat than they did in the prospect of victory and his triumphant nomination and election at some future day is a foregone conclusion."

Following the choie of the Greene county nominee, the Washington Observer, under date of Tuesday, September 25, 1906, had the following words of praise for Mr. Anderson and his attitude in its editorial columns:

"The conferees of the Republican party of the 46th district were unable to nominate a candidate for state senate, the decision being made by the referee selected by the Republican chairman. The result of this rule was the nomination of Hon. D. S. Walton of Greene county.

"A. H. Anderson, who was the choice of the Republicans of this county, and who was favored by the Observer and the Washington county Republicans, not only because of his qualifications for the place, but on account of having been nominated by the free choice of the Republican electors by a very large majority, accepts his defeat graciously. He made a splendid fight and rallied to his support a host of Republicans who worked enthusiastically for his nomination. Mr. Anderson comes out of the contest with flying colors, though defeated. He is young. He has a future before him. THE FUTURE HAS NOT BEEN INJURED BY THE PRESENT RESULT. IT HAS BEEN HELPED, AND HE MAY BE EXPECTED TO BE A FACTOR IN THE REPUBLICAN PARTY. TRUE TO HIS IDEAS OF REPUBLICANISM, HE IS FOR THE TICKET AND HE WILL BE FOUND WORKING FOR WALTON JUST THE SAME AS IF HE HAD BEEN CHOSEN HIMSELF. HE IS A REPUBLICAN AND BELIEVES THAT REPUBLICAN PRINCIPALS ARE MORE IMPORTANT THAN OFFICE"

And Mr. Anderson was FOR THE TICEKT—He worked for it, helped it, stood by it, because he was a Republican and believed that Republican principles were more important than office.

He has always been a Republican. He has not followed after strange fancies in politics. He was not identified with the Citizens party; he was not part and parcel of the Lincoln party, those two organizations that tried to defeat two Republican tickets in this county. He did not sit on the stage of the Washington opera house and vigorously applaud the words of Lewis Emery when he attacked the party and its nominee for Governor, the Hon. Edwin S. Stuart.

And Mr. Anderson did become a factor in the Republican party of Washington county. As its chairman he guided the party through a troublous year to success. He has given unsparingly of time and labor to its advancement and its victories over those who would encompass its defeat for the purpose of attaining selfish ends.

The Republicans of the 46th district believe in fair pay—THEY STAND FOR LOYALTY AND POLITCAL HONESTY. They know how Anderson has stood on all matters affecting the party. He has been four square.

Another primary is near at hand. Mr. Anderson is again a candidate for nomination for the office of state senate. His record is before the voters. The clean pages of his life are spread forth to the gaze of men. As a AREPUBLICN NOW AND ALWAYS he faces the voters of the district and asks them to grant him their support.

T. L. Kennedy Treats His Workmen Fairly

New Brighton, Pa., May 30, 1910:

To the Workingmen of Beaver, Washington and Lawrence Counties:--

We, the undersigned employees of the M. T. and S. Kennedy Company, of which Hon. T. L. Kennedy is a member, have heard that enemies of his nomination for Congress, are circulating stories to prejudice the workingmen against Mr. Kennedy.

These are to the effect that he and his company have not given their men fair treatment; one story is about a man losing his hand, after which they gave him work at $2.50 a day until the time for entering a suit had passed and then discharged him. Another is that there have been [illegible].

Now we wish to say that we have worked for the M. T. & S. Kennedy Company the number of years set opposite our names and during that time the company has always treated its men fair and just.

There has never been a strike among the men. The only strike was among the boys and lasted but a short time.

No employee has ever lost a hand. The company and Mr. T. L. Kennedy as manager of the New Brighton factory has always been careful to see that guards for protection from accident were in place. When an accident has occured generous and fair treatment has always been afforded the unfortunate workman by Mr. Kennedy and the company.

STATEMENTS TO THE CONTRARY ARE ABSOLUTELY UNTRUE AND UNJUST.

We make this statement voluntarily and feel we are doing only what is right to a man and company that bears a record not surpassed by any employer of labor in the state of Pennsylvania.

William Feeney

The Workingman's Candidate for Assembly

Wm. Feeney, the workingman's Candidate for Assembly.

A. Miner, bread minded enough to represent the interests of the people.

Wm. Feeney stands squarely on the platform adopted by the New Castle Convention.

Wm. Feeney can represent the interests of the Workingman because he is is one of them NOW.

Wm. Feeney believes there is nothing too good for the children of the people, and for that reason believes in a most liberal and honest expenditure of state funds for school purposes, and a better High School System for all the school districts, county as well as city.

Wm. Feeney is progressive, believes in good Roads, and in paying a salary to county officers and abolishing the Fee System

Wm. Feeney is a man of character. Vote for him; he will represent you honestly.

PLAIN PEOPLE WILL HAVE SAY

Lesson Taught by Last Gubernatorial Convention to be Followed This Month

WHO THE REAL BOSSES ARE

Mr. Bryan Has Served Notice on an Ohio Opponent to Keep Off the Political Grass and Will Battle For Supremacy in This State.

United States Senator Boies Penrose, the accepted leader of the regular Republican organization in Pennsylvania, is harsh and unreasonable according to the Democratic estimate, simply because he has positively refused even an attempt at dictation so far as the Republican candidate for Governor is concerned. Senator Penrose is a heartless party boss from a Democratic standpoint simply because he refused absolutely to boss his party. Of course the esteem in which the senior senator from Pennsylvania is held by the leaders of the Republican party in this State naturally gives him a prestige and standing in the councils of his party and because that prestige and standing are not employed for selfish purposes he is designated as boss pure and simple. After all, however, it is for the Republicans of the State to laugh. In the matter of a gubernatorial candidate Senator Penrose has put the question up to the members of the Republican party of the State. The election of the candidate, whoever he may be, must rest with the members of the party and Senator Penrose has mildly and wisely put the responsibility of the selection of that candidate exactly where it belongs. The forceful lesson taught by the convention which nominated Edwin S. Stuart for Governor has not been lost. There were several strong candidates before that convention and the delegates went about their work of selecting a standard-bearer with great deliberation. Every political element appearing in the gathering was carefully and cautiously weighed and the nomination of Governor Stuart resulted. An occasional political boss throughout the State was disappointed and to some extent disgruntled on account of the Stuart nomination, but the nomination had come direct from the hands of the people and when the people have their say the bosses, great and small, are usually compelled to sit up and take notice. The indications are that the Republicans of the State will apply the same methods at the coming State convention and very naturally the Democrats are already in despair over the prospects. The election of Governor Stuart was emphatic notice to the bosses in Republican politics that the people must be reckoned with in all campaigns and his administration has plucked insurgency, root and branch, from the Republican party in the State and has given the best possible guarantee that whoever the Republican candidate may be to succeed him will be elected by a safe and easy majority. Governor Stuart has fixed a high standard. He has been gracious and modest and above and beyond all he has been the Governor of the whole people. He, more than any boss or leader, has guaranteed Republican supremacy to Pennsylvania. The aspirant for the Governorship best equipped to carry out the policies and practices inaugurated by Governor Stuart is practically certain to be nominated as his successor.

Naturally these conditions are not pleasing to the Democrats. They are being twisted and torn with factional bitterness. They are fighting for the supremacy of this or that boss with neither policy nor principle involved, and no one realizes the situation better than Senator Penrose, who is cruel enough to stand aside while the real bosses go to a finish in their war of extermination. The Democratic boss who in the past refused to bow to the will of the greatest of all bosses, W. J. Bryan, must now step up to the political cashier and settle. Governor Harmon, of Ohio, is the latest victim of the Bryan wrath. The Ohio Governor has intimated his willingness to be the Democratic candidate for President. He refused some time in the yet unburied past to stand for Bryan in his lofty ambition to hoist himself into the White House and now Governor Harmon has had emphatic notice from Bryan to keep off the Bryan grass. Colonel Guffey, the Pennsylvanian leader of the Democracy, has had similar notice served upon him and both must either obey or fight a mighty battle for their disobedience. The Republican delegates, elected by the Republicans for their several districts will, in State convention, name the Republican candidate for Governor. That is why the Democrats are shouting themselves hoarse about Senator Penrose and others in the Republican party who refuse to boss or be bossed. The Democrats, when they gather in their mock convention, will register either the will of Mr. Bryan or the power of Colonel Guffey. If Mr. Bryan has his way, and he will fight hard to get it, W. H. Berry will be the Democratic candidate for Governor. Mr. Bryan has no compromise to offer. He is for rule or ruin. Colonel Guffey will be satisfied with any other Democrat in the State. Of course there is no bossism in Democracy. Senator Penrose is the only boss and he is a boss only in the minds of those Democrats who are provoked at the situation in the State the situation in the State and who want him to interfere with the assured success of the Republican party

As the primary contests in the State approach there are a few things worth knowing by voters of every party. In districts where the purpose is to have Republicans vote for the nomination of Democrats or Democrats vote for Republicans election boards must be governed by the second paragraph, section 10, of the act of 1906, which says:

Each elector shall have the right to receive the ballot of the party for which he asks: Provided, that if he is challenged he shall be required to make oath or affirmation that, at the next preceding general election at which he voted, he voted for a majority of the candidates of the party for whose ballot he asks.

The appended facts are also of interest to the average voter in Pennsylvania:

Primary election, June 4. General election, Nov. 8. Democratic State convention, Allentown, June 15. Republican State convention, Harrisburg, June 22. Prohibition State convention, Harrisburg, July 1. Last day to be assessed for November election, Wednesday, Sept. 7. Last day for filing certificate of nomination, made by State conventions, with the secretary of the commonwealth, Tuesday, Sept. 27. Last day for filing nomination papers of candidates for Congress or any State office, for November election, with the secretary of the commonwealth, Tuesday, Oct. 4. Last day to pay taxes to qualify for the November election, Saturday, Oct. 8. Last day for filing nomination papers for November election, with the county commissioners, Tuesday, Oct. 18. No such papers can be filed this year unless a special election is being held in the county to fill some local office. Last day for filing statement of expenses for November election, Thursday, Dec. 8.

A Fashion Garrick Killed.

Women of England in the eighteenth century wore large hats. Samuel Rogers once traveled to Ranelagh in the same coach with a woman who was compelled to sit on a stool on the floor of the coach on account of the inconvenient height of her headdress. Hannah More, who was all for simplicity in everything, writes in her diary that she has seen women wearing on their heads "an acre and a half of shrubbery, besides slopes, grass plats, tulip beds, clumps of peonies, kitchen gardens and greenhouses." The credit of killing this fashion is given to Garrick. He appeared one night on the stage with a mass of vegetables on his head and a carrot suspended from each side, to the shame and confusion of many fair members of his audience."

FOR ASSEMBLY

Republican Chairman

C. Wesley Yarnall

DR. C. WESLEY YARNALL, of California, has formally announced himself as a candidate for the Assembly on the Republican ticket at the Spring primaries, and from now on proposes to make an aggressive campaign in favor of his candidacy.

Dr. C. Wesley Yarnall is a son of Rev. [illegible] Yarnall, deceased, of the Pittsburg M. E. Conference. He was born in Claysville, Pa., in 1860. His early education was obtained in the public schools of the county and the Normal School of California. Later he mined coal and taught school, which enabled him to take a three-year elective course at Allegheny College, Crawford county, Pa., in preparation for medicine. Finding himself in no financial condition to enter a medical college at that time, he entered the Railway Mail Service between Pittsburg and New York for six years, earned enough to enter Jefferson College, Philadelphia, Pa., graduating in the class of 1889. He then engaged in the practice of medicine in Roscoe and Beallsville, Pa., until 1899, when he took a post graduate course at the Post Graduate College, of New York City, and in the fall of the same year he resumed practice in California, where he is at present located. The doctor is one of the oldest members of the I. O. O. F. of this district and belongs to several other fraternal organizations. Lately he has been active in organizing the F. O. E. and L. O. O. M. lodges. He has been an active Republican during his political life, and he says that he supported nine out of every ten of the successful candidates for office during the past twenty-five years. A return of this favor will be very much appreciated. The doctor also intends to make an active canvass and asks the help and support of all his friends and also promises in return to work for the best interests of Washington county. His platform is brief, progressive policies, approved by the Republican organization, beneficial to the greatest number of people in the county and State.

If nominated and elected, I am in favor of personal registration, and better election laws.

I am in favor of the New School Code when perfected, and the highest Educational Standard for our Public School System.

I am in favor of the principle of Home Rule, and am against any measure on any subject that does not come clean, shows equity, and maintains justice to all parties concerned.

I am against graft and opposed to bossism in any shape it may appear, and in favor of clean political activity on the part of our leaders.

I am in favor of every honest dollar in our land, and in favor of every honest effort of labor in all classes, to better her condition, and to receive the just increase for her toil that is coming to her.

I am in favor of a Road Law that will set aside a part of each year's road tax and compel the use of the same for permanent Road Improvements according to fixed plans and specifications.

I am a Roosevelt Republican, and it was my duty as well as a privilege, to become acquainted with him while he was at the head of the Civil Service Commission in the 80's.

I believe the principles and policies he has given us as applied to Borough, Township, County and State government, will better our condition, and I am an enthusiastic supporter of the progressive policies for which he stands—a square deal to all, and that the rights of the people shall be observed.

Yours truly,

C. WESLEY YARNALL,

HE FED THE STAFF.

Fine Dinner For a Hungry Crowd on a Small Capital.

Years ago the late Senator E. W. Carmack was editor of the Nashville Democrat, a paper that had a precarious life and flickered out on Thanksgiving day.

When the staff came around on Thanksgiving afternoon Carmack met them with the announcement that the paper was dead and that they were all without jobs. This was sadder than it seems now, for the paper had not been paying salaries for some time.

"Boys," said Carmack, "it's all over. The sheet is dead. But we shall not want for a Thanksgiving day dinner. How much money have we?" A search of all pockets showed $4.70.

"Plenty," said Carmack. "Come with me."

They went to the best restaurant and sat down, and Carmack ordered a sumptuous dinner, with turkey and everything complete. After the dinner was over and the diners were smoking the best cigars the house had Carmack called the waiter in his grandest manner and said: "Boy, you have served us admirably. We are more than pleased. Here is a small sum to compensate you for your trouble and as a slight token of our gratification."

"Thank yo', boss," grinned the waiter; "thank yo'. But how about this yere check of $19.70 for that dinner you all just had?"

"Boy," exclaimed Carmack, "what is your status here? Are you a waiter or are you the financial manager of this concern?"

"'Deed, boss, I's only a waiter."

"Well, then," said Carmack, "don't trouble yourself about the financial affairs of the place. Leave that to the manager." And he stalked out, followed by the feasted staff.

But he paid when fortune smiled again.—Cleveland Leader.

Early Psychotherapy.

In the Epistle of James we find the early Christian rule of psychotherapy. It was adopted by the early church and for many centuries was a rule of faith and practice in the Christian church in all its branches. It is still a rule of conduct in some of the older churches, and some leaders in churches where the rule has lapsed begin to plead for its revival and for the assumption by the church of what are called its legitimate powers. St. James said: "Is any sick among you, let him call for the elders of the church, and let them pray over him, anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord. And the prayer of faith shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up, and if he have committed sins they shall be forgiven him."—Christian Register.

A Sad Case.

An Atchison man has lain in an unconscious state ever since 10 o'clock last night. Everything has been done to arouse him today, but all efforts are unavailing. His friends are greatly alarmed. They fear he may never regain consciousness. It seemed that yesterday evening right after dinner the man picked up his hat, put on his overcoat and, although his wife was sitting right in the room, she did not say, "Where are you going?" He walked out of the house. At 10 o'clock in the evening the man returned. He walked into the room where his wife sat and took off his hat and overcoat. She smiled at him pleasantly and did not say, "Where have you been?" The man fell unconscious to the floor.—Atchison Globe.

African Elephants.

In portions of Africa the natives believe when a herd of elephants is alarmed and runs away the bulls, if necessary, pick up and carry on their tusks the little ones which may not be able to keep up with the herd. These little ones when first born weigh not more than 200 pounds and of course might readily be carried, as stated. We do not know that any white man has ever seen this, but the natives insist that it is done.—Forest and Stream.

Raikes' Ragged Regiment.

"Bobby Wild Goose and his ragged regiment" was the name hooted after Robert Raikes, the first modern Sunday school advocate, and his scholars. The thoroughfare was Sooty alley, and the scholars were the ragged boys who toiled in the pin factories of Gloucester, England. Robert Raikes paid Mrs. Brandon, a poor woman, a shilling each Sunday to teach the boys the Bible. That was in 1780. Four years later there were 250,000 boys and girls attending Sunday school in the kingdom.—Delineator.

A Maker of Bulls.

Some excellent bulls are credited to William Arolin, who was a London police judge in the thirties of the last century. He once remarked to counsel, "If you can show precisely at what moment the offense was committed and prove that the prisoner was not there when he did it, he could not possibly have done it." And he sagely added, "We cannot divest ourselves of common sense in a court of justice." Of a similar character was an axiom he once delivered himself of, which has been maliciously fathered on many other occupants of the bench, "If ever there was a case of clearer evidence than this case, this case is that case."

The Only Way to Know.

Catherine had asked so many questions, and father was growing impatient. Finally he said, "Oh, Catherine, I can't answer half your questions."

"I know you can't, father, but then I do not know which half you can't answer."—Delineator.

A CHEERFUL OUTLOOK.

Making It Pleasant For the Studious Traveler.

An English tourist traveling on foot through one of our mountainous regions, studying the people, asked a man whom he met to direct him to a certain cabin at which he had been advised to stay overnight. "Going thar?" said the man. "Well, Tom's a first rater, take him just right, but he's mighty queer."

"What do you mean?" asked the traveler.

"Well, it's like this," and the man looked at the stranger in a calm, impersonal way. "He'll be setting outside, most probably, and he'll see you coming. He'll take a good look at you, and ef you don't suit him he may set the dog on you.

"Ef he don't and you get to talking with him and say anything he don't just like he may throw you down and romp on you. But ef you're too careful in your talk, on the other hand, he's liable to take you for a spy and use his gun fust and listen to explanations afterward.

"But it's no use trying to get by without stopping," concluded the man, with evident relish of the prospect he was opening up to the stranger. "Ef you was to undertake that 'twould be all up with you, for he'd think you was proud and biggetty.

"Ef you want to come out of the mountain whole, don't go past Tom's cabin without stopping, whatever you do!"—Youth's Companion.

Steel Pen Helps Forgers.

The crime of forgery has been facilitated and increased by the modern introduction of metallic pens, gold and steel, says a writer in the Indianapolis News. The old fashioned quill pen was smooth and pleasant to write with, though it sometimes balked and sputtered, but it did not lend itself to skillful imitations as easily as the metallic pen does. The crime of forgery doubtless has been promoted by the almost universal education of modern times. In an age when everybody writes and when many are skillful penmen forgeries are much more frequent than they were centuries ago, when the person who could handle a pen was an exception. Many modern criminals make a living by committing forgeries, victimizing hotels, banks, capitalists and business men generally.

Domestic Economy.

"Hey, mon," exclaimed the braw bonnie north countryman, "thrift is a wunnerful thing!"

"Yes," replied his English traveling companion. "You're right there. Now, I gave my wife a ten pound note to manage on last time I was away, and—would you believe it?—instead of exceeding it she saved nearly a sovereign out of it to buy herself a hat!"

"That's nowt," replied the Scotsman "My wife gives the kids ha'pennies apiece to go to bed supperless; when they're asleep she takes the ha'pennies off on 'em ageean, and then she makes 'em do wi'out ony breakfasts for losin' 'em! Hey, mon, that's thrift!"—London Scraps.

She Was the Champion.

A colored woman of generous proportions was on the witness stand and she made such a good witness for the plaintiff that the attorney for the defense planned to throw "cold water" on what she said by finding fault with her character.

"Let me see—you have been arrested, haven't you?" the attorney asked in cross examination.

"Now, look a-heah," said the witness, getting angry, "do you think I'm goin' to tell you all my private business? I guess not."

"I have the right to know, and you must tell me," the lawyer persisted, and the judge instructed the witness that she would have to answer.

"I's 'rested for lickin' my husban'," she said, her eyes flashing.

"That so?" said the attorney, with great satisfaction. "What is your husband's name?" She told him. "What is his business?"

"He's a prizefightah," she said, and the cross examination abruptly ended amid general merriment.—Indianapolis News.

Clerk's Elbow.

"To remove shiny spots from coat elbows and trousers seats," said a clerk—"I'll tell you how it is done."

The sun was strong on him as, upon his lofty stool, he munched his midday sandwich from thin, ink smeared fingers, but on his old clerk's coat and old trousers no shiny spots reflected the light.

"'Clerks' elbow' such spots are called," he said. "It's like housemaids' knee. To cure it you soak the glittering spot in cold water for half an hour. Then you take a teasel—that's a very stiff thistle—and you rub the spot with it till a nap or fuzz is raised up. Then with a clothesbrush you lay the nap down the right way, and, presto, the shine is gone!"—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Art of the Superior Smile.

The superior smile is a useful accomplishment for any young man. It is much in vogue at the universities, where it may be studied at its best on young Don. Many men who learn nothing else at the universities learn this art and find it uncommonly useful in after life. It is an excellent cover for a naked mind and should be sought after by parliamentary candidates.—Oxford Varsity.

VEST'S CAMPAIGN SPEECH.

Why a Small Boy Persisted In Hearing It Every Day.

"Senator Vest was making a bigger campaign in southeast Missouri some years ago," said a Missouri official. "His driver was a small boy, who was duly impressed with the importance of his distinguished passenger.

"At each town visited by Vest the boy hurried his team to a convenient livery barn and then raced for the courthouse, or wherever the 'speakin'' was to take place, and perched himself with painful regularity on the front seat. He invariably turned his eyes on the senator and took in every word of the speech as if his very life depended on it.

"Finally the lad's continued conspicuous presence among his auditors annoyed the senator, and he kindly but firmly reminded the boy that it was not necessary for him to attend every meeting.

"'I make the same speech each time You have heard it often enough to know it by rote, so just put in your time in the future looking after the team,' he admonished his youthful driver.

"Despite the senator's objection, the boy was again in the front seat the next day and the following day. This enraged Vest, and he thundered:

"'Why do you persist in always occupying that front seat? Didn't I tell you I make the same speech every day? It's as old and stale to you as it is to me. Why insist on hearing it again and again?'

"'I want to see what you're going to do when you fergit it,' answered the boy. Vest capitulated."—St. Louis Republic.

THE ELEPHANT FLEET.

How It Is Used by the British Government In India.

Its elephant fleet is one of the strangest and most deadly departments maintained by the British government in India. It is a large fleet of cossing steamers specially built for the transport of elephants. India's population is one-fifth that of the entire globe. All these people use elephants. They use them for draft work and for tiger hunting, and in the arenas of the native states they even pit them against one another and against wild beasts. The elephant fleet transfers the animals from Dacca, the trapping and training headquarters, to the various districts whence comes the demand.

To get an elephant aboard ship is a difficult and dangerous task. The animal must wade through the surf to a stout raft, and this unknown surf, so white and tumultuous, often terrifies and maddens him. If in his fury he slaughters a mahout or two he cannot be greatly blamed. Once on the raft, his legs are tied to pegs, and the slow sail to the ship is uneventful. But now a great hand must be arranged under the elephant's belly, and a crane must hoist him up some twenty or thirty feet to the deck. Here again the elephant cannot be set down as intractable if, losing his head in that unprecedented aerial journey, he murders some more mahouts. Very prosperous, albeit stained a little with mahouts' blood, the elephant fleet for many years has plied up and down the Indian coast, embarking and disembarking its heavy, unmanageable freight.—New York Press.

The Appreciation of Music.

If we would appreciate music aright we must remember that its beauty depends not upon the composer alone, but upon ourselves also. Deep calls unto deep, and the harmony of sound, though appealing primarily to the outward ear, must be answered by a harmony from within ourselves. The more culture we bring to the hearing of music, the wider our sympathy, the more exquisite will be the echoes which it awakens in the soul. If we would understand the composer's message we must co-operate with him. We must reach out to him with all our faculties. If we do that, the revelation of music will ceaselessly renew its beauty, ever turning unimagined aspects to gladden us.—Redfern Mason in Atlantic.

An Ugly Looking Lizard.

Among the lizards of Australia the "thorny devil" (Moloch horridus) is unrivaled in its ugliness. From the tip of its nose to the end of its tail this lizard is covered with tubercles and spines, but in spite of its dangerous appearance it is quite harmless. It measures about seven inches in length. It has a flat body, a small head and a cylindrical tail. It frequents sandy places, feeds largely on ants and is more or less diurnal in habits. Its powerful limbs are furnished with strong claws, which it uses in digging the sand, in which it often lies wholly or partially buried.

Defined.

"What is the difference between firmness and obstinacy?" asked a young lady of her fiance.

"Firmness," was his gallant reply, "is a noble characteristic of women; obstinacy is a lamentable defect in men!"

A WOMAN'S INFLUENCE.

Effect It Produced on Her Husband's Business Affairs.

A delegation of young men lately waited on their employer's wife with the oddest request on record. "You see, madam," said the spokesman, "we want to have a half holiday every Saturday. Now, if you will be particularly nice to Mr. Page for a few days we'll go to him and ask"—

"Gentlemen," the lady haughtily interrupted, "do you imply that I do not understand what is due to my husband?"

"Oh, I know all about it, madam," the spokesman went on. "I'm married myself. Things go wrong in the house, and you're tired and cross at breakfast. Then we suffer at the office. You stay up late to chaperon your daughter at a ball, and we have more trouble at the office. You're a bit cross three mornings in succession for one reason or another, and we have a—a—terrible time at the office.

"You see how the matter stands and how greatly you will oblige us by being more than usually agreeable to Mr. Page for three or four days. The fourth day give him the best breakfast you can—everything that he likes best—and we'll get what we want in three minutes.

"Talk about a woman having no influence in the business! Why, the humor she's in has more effect than a bank failure or a boom in trade."

She thought she ought to be angry, but instead she laughed and agreed to the proposition, and four days later when they waited on the head of the firm he made the closing hour 12 o'clock and said never in the history of the firm had things run as satisfactorily as they had during the last four days.—London Tit-Bits.

Sight Lost and Restored.

A farmer's wife who had had much trouble with her servants was accosted by one of them.

"I fear I shall not be able to work much longer. I think I am going blind."

"Why, how is that? You seem to get along pretty well with your work."

"Yes, but I can no longer see any meat on my plate at dinner."

The farmer's wife understood, and the next day the servants were served with very large and very thin pieces of meat.

"How nice!" the girl exclaimed. "My sight has come back. I can see better than ever."

"How is that, Bella?" asked the mistress.

"Why, at this moment," replied Bella. "I can see the plate through the meat."—London Scraps.

Is Your Porch Useless Half The Day?

Make it a CHARM and a COMFORT ALWAYS

will make the sunniest, breeziest porch an inviting all-day living room, where you can read, sew, play games, or take a nap in perfect comfort. At night, a protected sleeping place for those who sleep out-of-doors in pleasant weather.

Vudor Porch Shades

shut out all sun-glare and wind, but let in ample light and air

They give the insider plenty of outlook, but the outsider gets no inlook. They really add another room to your house, as secluded and private as any and unapproached for healthful enjoyment, at a cost so low that it will surprise you.

The way Vudor Porch Shades are made, accounts for their great superiority. The slats are of tough, straight-grained wood, stained (not painted) in pleasing colors. And the warp is of seine twine, such as is used for fishing nets. They have heavy strips top and bottom, and are supplied with the best possible fixtures. They last for years and do not frazzle out at the ends, nor warp out of shape, as do the cheap bamboo screens.

Anyone who has a screw-driver can quickly put them up. They are easily raised or lowered and may be fastened at any desired height.

The only place to buy them in Charleroi is here
We have a full line which we are as glad to demonstrate as we are to endorse.
